GROVER CLEVELAND

Again Named to Lead the Triumphant Democracy to Victory.

Eloquent Speeches by Collins and Daugherty.

The Proceedings Complete to the Moment of Adjournment.

ST. LOUIS, June 6.—The convention gathers slowly, owing to the protracted meeting of the platform committee and its further conference at 9 o'clock today. The atmosphere of the hall is close and there is a disposition on the part of the visitors in the galleries to view the proceedings in shirt sleeves.

Among the early arrivals of the hall was a delegation of women, who are here to insist upon the incorporation of a plank in favor of woman's right to vote. These ladies look much fresher than the members of the platform committee with whom they had a protracted discussion last night, but without convincing the committee.

There is a disposition to go on with the permanent organization anyhow in order to enable the convention to adjourn finally to-day, about which there is now beginning to be some doubt.

Called to Order.

At 10:22 the convention was called to order by the temporary chairman. A resolution was adopted thanking the Colorado delegation for the silver gavel and directing it to be placed in charge of the national committee for use at future democratic conventions.

The chair laid before the convention the credentials of the delegates from Alaska. They were referred to the committee on credentials.

Several resolutions were offered and referred. Mr. Webb, of Alabama, chairman of the committee, submitted a report on the Dakota contested case. The committee finds in favor of W. F. Steele and G. C. Maguire, of the church faction. The committee also finds in favor of admitting Messrs. Dulaney and Garnett as delegates from Alaska. Agreed to.

The committee on organization reported it had unanimously agreed upon Patrick A. Collins, of Massachusetts, for permanent chairman. The announcement was received with loud applause and cheers.

H. H. Ingersoll, of Tennessee, is secretary, and one delegate from each state as vice president and one as assistant secretary.

The committee further recommended that the rules of the previous convention shall be in force during the present convention, with a modification that no state shall change its vote for president and vice president until the call of the states is completed. Agreed to.

Chairman Barnum, Roswell P. Flower, of New York, and John O'Day, of Missouri, were appointed a committee to escort the permanent chairman of the convention to the stage.

Mr. White introduced Mr. Collins and passed over the silver gavel to him.

Speech of Gen. Patrick Collins.

General Collins said that the chairmanship of the convention, a post filled by the foremost men of the party, was appreciated by him as a distinction of the highest character. The young men of the nation, he said, had heard more in their time of the clash of arms and the echoes of war than the principles of government. So 'twas no wonder the question was asked and scarcely answered: "What difference is there between the two parties?" The speaker replied to the query with a pithy summary of the political creed of Thomas Jefferson, the apostle of democracy.

To this General Collins added the golden economic rule, that no more taxes should be levied upon the people in any way than was necessary to meet the honest expenses of the government. True to these principles, the democratic party fought successfully our foreign wars, protected our citizens in every clime, compelled the respect of all nations for our flag, added imperial domain to our territory, and insured peace, prosperity and happiness to all people. False to these principles, the great federal, whig and know-nothing parties went down, never to rise again and now here to-day are the representatives of the party that had survived all others, the united, triumphant invincible democracy, prepared to strike down forever the last surviving foe in November.

This country has been the asylum for all the good men from all over the earth, who flee from want and oppression and mean to become Americans. But we invite and welcome only friends to this ground, and liegemen to the republic. Our institutions cannot change to meet the hostile wishes, nor be so much as essentially modified, save by peaceful and deliberate action. The mass of our people are in accordance with the constitution or the laws of the land, and the man is not a true American who, knowing what we are, will by word or act, experiment or thought in any way attempt to weaken the foundation of this splendid political structure—the republic of the United States.

General Collins, warmly and at length, eulogized the administration of President Cleveland as having triumphantly justified his election. The democracy now stood on the edge of another and perhaps greater contest with relation to the electors, not held before for a generation—that of the responsibility for the great trust of the government, no longer critics, but criticised. They were confronted by a wily, unscrupulous and desperate foe. There would be no limit on record that would not be magnified into a blot; no circumstances, not tortured and misrepresented; no disappointment, not exaggerated into revolt; not a class or creed but what would not be sought to inflame; no passion, not attempted to rouse; no fraud that would not be willingly perpetrated, but the appeal of the democratic party is not to passion or prejudice, to class of faction or race, or creed, but to the sound common sense interest, intelligence and patriotism of the American people. Upon their matchless record for the last four years, and upon their earnest efforts, as yet incomplete, to reduce and equalize the burdens of taxation, democrats enter the canvass.

General Collins closed by appealing to the patriotic, independent citizens, who four years ago forsook their old allegiance, and who, since that time, have nobly sustained the administration, to remember that it is fatal error to weaken a political organization by which great reforms have been achieved, and risk them in the hands of their known adversaries. The democratic temple is open to all and if, in council, they could not agree in all things, their motto nevertheless, was: "In essentials, unity; in non-essentials, liberty; in all things, charity."

Mr. Collins spoke in a voice which, though not great in volume, was sufficiently clear and distinct to enable him to be heard in every portion of the hall. He was frequently interrupted with loud applause. References to the name of Cleveland provoked enthusiasm whenever they occurred in the chairman's remarks. At the conclusion of his speech Mr. Collins was again roundly and warmly greeted.

Down to Work Again.

The chair announced that the committee on resolutions will not be able to report until 8 p. m.

The convention passed resolutions of regret at the illness of General Sheridan and the hope that he will be spared for many years.

The Sheridan resolutions were adopted by a rising vote, with three hearty cheers for the gallant soldier.

Mr. Schewalter, of Missouri, offered a tariff resolution. Referred to the committee on resolutions.

A request from the women's convention recently held at Washington that two of its members be allowed ten minutes to talk to the convention in behalf of the women of America was read. Mr. O'Donohue, of New York, moved that the women be heard and it was agreed to. Mrs. Merryweather then mounted the platform. She said she was a delegate to ask that this great convention help to make the practice of this nation conform to its principles of universal suffrage.

Resolutions were then offered for a recess until 8 o'clock this evening and until 10 o'clock to-morrow, when Mr. Henzell, of Pennsylvania, moved that a roll of states and territories be called and the names of the candidates for president and vice-president be placed in nomination, but no ballot be taken until after the committee on resolutions shall have reported. The resolution was adopted.

When Alabama was called the chairman said his state desired to give way to New York.

The New York delegation presented Daniel Daugherty to make the nomination and the great hall rang with cheers, which were prolonged and grew in volume for a minute until Mr. Daugherty mounted the platform. Then it was redoubled.

Hon. Daniel Daugherty Nominates Cleveland.

Mr. Daniel Daugherty said: "I greet you, my countrymen, with fraternal regard. In your presence I bow to the majesty of the people—slight itself inspiring thought sublime. You come from every state and territory, from every nook and corner of our ocean-bound continent. You are about to discharge more than an imperial duty, with the simplest ceremonials. You, as the representatives of the people, are to choose a magistrate, with power mightier than a monarch, yet checked and controlled by the supreme law of a written constitution. Thus impressed I ascend the rostrum to name the next president of the United States. New York presents him to the convention and pledges her electoral vote. Delegations from thirty-eight states and all the territories are assembled without caucus or consultation, ready to simultaneously take up the cry and make the vote unanimous. We are here not indeed to choose a candidate, but to name the one the people have already chosen. He is the man for the people. His career illustrates the glory of our institutions. Eight years ago unknown, save in his own locality, he for the last four years stood in the gaze of the world discharging the most exalted duties that can be confided to mortal. To-day determines that, not of his own choice, but by the mandate of his countrymen and with the sanction of heaven he shall fill the presidency for four years more. He has met and mastered every question as if from youth trained to statesmanship. The promises of his letter of acceptance and inaugural address have been fulfilled. His fidelity in the past inspires faith in the future. He is not a hope, but a realization. Scorning subterfuge, disdaining re-election by concealing his convictions, mindful of his oath of office to defend the constitution, he courageously declares to congress, dropping minor matters, that the supreme issue is reform, revision and reduction of national taxation; that the treasury of the United States is glutted with unneeded gold that oppresses industry, embarrasses business, endangers financial tranquility and breeds extravagance, centralization and corruption. That high taxation, vital for the expenditures of an unparalled war is robbery in years of prosperous peace. That the millions that pour into the treasury come from the hard earned savings of the American people. That in violation of equality of right, the present tariff has created a privileged class, who, shaping legislation for personal gain, levy by law contributions for the necessaries of life from every man, woman and child in tax. That lower tariff is not free trade. It is to reduce the unjust profits of monopolists and manufacturers and allow the consumers to retain the rest. The man who asserts that to lower the tariff means free trade insults intelligence; we brand him as a falsifier. It is furthest from our thought to imperil capital or disturb the enterprises. The aim is to uphold wages and to protect the rights of all. This administration has rescued the public domain from the would-be barons and cormorant corporations, faithless to their obligations and reserved it for free homes for this and coming generations. There is no pilfering, no jobs under this administration. Public office is a public trust. Integrity stands guard at every post of our vast empire, while the president has been the medium through which has flowed the undying gratitude of the republic for her soldiers. He has not hesitated to withhold his approval from special legislation, if the strictest inquiry revealed a want of truth and justice. Above all, sectional strife, as never before, is at an end, and 60,000,000 of freemen in the ties of brotherhood are prosperous and happy. These are the achivements of this administration. Under the same illustrious leader, we are ready to meet our political opponents in high and honorable debate and stake our triumph on the intelligence, virtue and patriotism of the people. Adhering to the constitution, its every line and letter, ever remembering that powers not delegated to the United States by the constitution, nor prohibited by it to the states are reserved to the states respectively or to the people. By authority of the democracy of New York, backed by the democracy of the entire union, I give you a name entwined with victory and nominate Grover Cleveland, of New York.

MR. DAUGHERTY'S OVATION.

Mr. Daugherty's speech was delivered with fine effect in his best style and aroused unbounded enthusiasm. When he mentioned the name of Cleveland or referred to his public acts and utterances the convention fairly shouted itself hoarse. Delegates mounted the chairs, waved hats, canes and handkerchiefs.

The spectators joined in the applause and a band in the east gallery helped along with horns and drums, but their blare and noise could scarcely be heard above the general din. As Mr. Daugherty finished his impassioned speech, some one in the west gallery tore aside a curtain which had hid the portrait of Cleveland upon the face of a great picture of the capitol building, revealing to the full gaze of the convention the well known features of the president. This incident aroused the enthusiasm of the convention to a fever heat for the first time during its proceedings. The hall was at once filled with cheer on cheer and the great body in the auditorium, balcony and galleries arose and stood shouting at the top of its voice until [illegible] din became almost deafening. [illegible] were thrown in the air, red bandanas waved from a thousand hands and white, black and grey hats were frantically thrust upon points of canes and waved until their owners became exhausted. The culmination of this great scene was reached when the banners of the states were borne by delegates to the New York standard and grouped about it. At this the enthusiasm was unbounded. It was exactly twenty-four minutes before the chair again assumed charge of the convention.

Seconding the Nomination of Cleveland.

James A. McKenzie, of Kentucky, took the stand to second the nomination of Grover Cleveland. There was, he said, within the broad limits of this great land, but one more popular democrat than Cleveland, and that was the queenly woman he had made his wife, (laughter and loud, long, continued applause). The white house was presided over by the uncrowned queen of our republic. He (McKenzie) was not going to let Mrs. Cleveland out of this campaign. "In Hoc Signo Vinces." (Applause.) At the last convention it was said that Cleveland was "loved for the enemies he made," later he was loved for the rascals he had turned out, and still later it was said he was loved for the message he had written. (Applause). Kentucky loved him for the fight that was in him, and for his splendid racing qualities. He was as game as Lexington and as speedy as Ten Broeck. [Laughter and applause.] In his early fame he won the Buffalo mayoralty, stakes hands down; later he cantered from post to pole in the New York handicap, winner by 192,000 feet. [Laughter.] He then entered against the Florentine Mossic from Maine and won the national Derby by a neck. He was about to run again and the bulletin board would show "Eclipse first and the rest nowhere." Mr. McKenzie then eulogized Mr. Cleveland and the administration in a pleasant manner.

Mr. H. D. Twiggs, of Georgia, also seconded Mr. Cleveland's nomination.

When Illinois was reached W. R. Morrison said he merely desired to formally second the nomination on behalf of the state of Illinois.

Kansas responded with a written second commending the Cleveland administration.

Michigan was represented by B. D. Stout, who voiced the sentiments of his delegation in seconding the nomination.

W. W. Lightfoot, of Texas, seconded the nomination on behalf of his state and promised a majority of 200,000 at the next election

Mr. Cleveland Nominated by Acclamation.

Mr. McKenzie, of Kentucky, moved to suspend the rules and nominate Grover Cleveland for president by acclamation.

The chair put the question and there was returned from the convention a thundering chorus of "Ayes."

The chair therefore announced that Grover Cleveland, having received an unanimous vote, was the candidate of the democratic party for the office of president of the United States.

When the nomination was announced another scene of wild enthusiasm occurred, but not so prolonged as that which followed Mr. Daugherty's speech.

The Convention Adjourns.

Mr. Voorhees moved a recess until 10 a. m. to-morrow. Lost.

Mr. Flower, of New York, moved to take a recess until 8 to-night. Lost.

Mr. Voorhees moved to take a recess until to-morrow at 10 o'clock; carried, and at 2 p. m. the convention adjourned.

A National Colored Club Organized.

Nearly a hundred representative colored democrats, from more than a dozen states, but chiefly from the north, held a meeting here yesterday afternoon and organized a negro national democratic league, with James M. Vena, of St. Louis, chairman; T. T. Brown, Springfield, Ill., secretary; Herbert A. Clark, Cincinnati, O., chairman of the executive committee, which is to be composed of one member from each state.

English to Thurman.

INDIANAPOLIS, June 6.—The following was sent to Mr. Thurman:

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind, June 5, 1888.

To Hon. A. G. Thurman, Columbus, Ohio:

Whatever preference Indiana may have for one of her own citizens, you may rely upon the ticket of Cleveland and Thurman receiving the cordial and undivided support of the democracy of the state. To doubt the election of that ticket would be to doubt the intelligence of the American people.

WM. H. ENGLISH.

The Committee on Resolutions at Work.

The committee on resolutions had a very long, and at times, a stormy session last night, and did not adjourn until 2:30 this morning. The committee met at 9 this morning and it is extremely probable that it will not finish its work by 10 o'clock. Mr. Gorman, the sub-committee [illegible] daily the work [illegible] for a continuance of the present [illegible]

FOR VICE PRESIDENT.

Portraits of the Leading Contestants and an Idea of Their Strength.

Thurman's Nomination Almost Certain.

Judge Thurman's nomination to the vice presidency seems certain this afternoon, and aside from Governor Gray, no other name is seriously mentioned. Should Thurman's nomination appear inevitable when the convention assembles to-morrow morning Governor Gray's friends will offer no futile opposition. On the contrary, they will acquiesce in a manner that will please the convention mightily and put Indiana democracy in splendid position before the country. This will be done upon the advice of Gov. Gray himself, who is fully advised as to the situation and is prepared to give the convention, should occasion arise, the best possible proof of his genuine democracy.

Gov. Gray Acquiesces.

Gov. Gray accepts the political situation philosophically and acquiesces in Thurman's probable nomination for vice-president. He said in the presence of a SENTINEL representative: "I knew that the way New York went the convention would go also. It has always been thus. When I was at the national convention at Cincinnati in 1880 where I worked for Hendrick's nomination, and four years later when I supported McDonald at Chicago, I learned the temper of those conventions and ascertained that New York's influence determined the result. I told several of my friends when I was first spoken of for the vice presidency how it would be. I informed Mr. Shanklin that the success of my candidacy would depend upon the support I received from the New York men, though I thought nothing then of Mr. Thurman being a factor. The delegates from that state are and always have been very dictatorial, but there will likely come a reaction against them some time. At least they will not rule the whole country when the democratic party awakes to the fact that it is not entirely dependent on New York for presidential success."

"How do you explain Mr. Scott's support of Mr. Thurman?"

"Well, he thought he would make a great political stroke by nominating Thurman. He thinks that by so doing he will force the republicans to nominate Sherman and thus leave New York free to Cleveland. Why, the republicans will not be in the least ruffled by such a move, as they have the state solid for them and they know it."

While the speech-making was in progress the Bunday woman jostled against Miss Laura Prickett, a comely young female, who resented the insult, when Mrs. Bundy whipped out a convenient billy and gave Miss Prickett a fearful castigation, causing the blood to spurt from numerous wounds in her head. There was a general uproar, and Mrs. Bundy made her escape. She was subsequently arrested and heavily fined. The affair has created a great sensation in the section where it occurred.

THE democrats lead in the state and the nation this year.

NATURAL gas was known in Japan ten centuries ago, as was also petroleum.

GOVERNOR GRAY is solidly and freely supported by his own state for the vice-presidency. No other aspirant can boast of this undoubted honor.

NO DEMOCRAT can find anything but favor in Judge Thurman's candidacy for vice-president. It is only a question of preference for Indiana's great leader with us.

GOVERNOR HILL, of New York, yesterday signed the bill abolishing hanging for all murders committed after January 1, 1889, and substituting death by electricity therefor.

THE government to-day collects $100,000,000 annually in excess of its apparent or prospective needs. The democratic party aims to stop this extortion by a sensible reduction of taxation. This is the democratic "free trade" talked of so much.

A PITTSBURG dispatch tells us that 4,000 workmen in the national tube works at McKeesport, Pa., have been forced to accept a reduction of 10 per cent. in wages, under the glorious high tarriff laws that increase the profits of the toiler, we are told by the republicans.

SOMEBODY may now assert that Gresham is a Catholic because Father Campion, of Lafayette, has pronounced him as one having "all the elements that ennoble manhood" and added that "he would make a grand president." The judge, however, is not a Catholic.—Gazette.

The Gazette is entirely too specific in its declaration that Judge Gresham "is not a Catholic." It would not detract from his greatness or his popularity, would it? Better and greater men than he is have espoused and been born in the Catholic faith, and members of that church will not be slow to read the ungracious purpose of the Gazette between the lines. It might change Rev. Mr. Campion's notion were he to read it.

THE Logansport Journal remarks: "The contract for the building for the state school for feeble-minded children, at Fort Wayne, has been let to a Fort Wayne firm. The building must be completed by the first of January, and will in all probability be commenced this week. The amount appropriated by the legislature is so small that it is thought the building will not accomodate the school, which at present numbers 232 scholars and teachers. To show how rapidly this school is increasing in attendance, we only need state that one year ago there were only sixty-nine scholars and teachers in the institution. If the next legislature encourages it by proper appropriations as it deserves, it will increase more rapidly than ever in attendance and be one of the prominent institutions of the state. It is estimated that there are almost seventeen hundred idiotic and epileptic children in Indiana."

AN IMPORTANT DECISION.

Judge Gresham Sustains the Jenney System of Electric Lights.

Indianapolis News.

An important decision was filed in the federal court to-day, in the case of Charles F. Brush, of Cleveland, against John Owen et al., in which an infringement of patent was alleged by complainants, testing the validity of what is known as the Jenney system. The opinion is by Gresham, as follows:

1. The invention shown in the patent sued for on was declared in patents 212,183 and 219,208, but in 212,183 the examiner held that Brush's claims were too broad. That decision was acquiesced in and the invention which was there described, claimed and rejected, is now claimed in the patent sued on. The rejected invention was dedicated to the public by acquiescence in the ruling of the examiner, and cannot be claimed in a subsequent patent against others who meantime entered the field and used the rejected invention.

2. The patent in suit [illegible] solenoids and cores made [illegible] and is [illegible] fringed by the defendants. These, briefly, are my reasons for dismissing the bill for want of equity.

The complaints are represented in this case by M. D. and L. L. Leggett, of Cleveland, and McDonald, Butler & Mason, this city, but the trial of the cause was left solely to McDonald and the Cleveland firm. B. S. Taylor, of Fort Wayne, represented the defendants. The decision is regarded as unusually important, and the case will go the supreme court, as at present anticipated.

MR. CONKLING'S friends who are in a position to know say that his finances are in much better shape than they have ever been, said a recent letter from Washington, and that he not only paid all his debts, but at the time of his death had a good balance in the bank and some profitable investments. When he opened his office in New York he had not a cent in the world and was deeply in debt. He said at that time: "When I lay at the gate of the grave some months ago, ill at my home in Utica with malarial fever, that which worried me most was the consciousness that in my entire career of nearly sixty years I had accumulated nothing, and if I died I would not only leave my family penniless but loaded with debt. At that time I did not have the money to pay the bills of the physician. If I had died I would not have left enough to pay my funeral expenses, and I made a solemn resolution that if Providence would spare my unworthy life I would devote it to the payment of my obligations and making provision for my old age and for those who are dependent upon me. I have come to New York with that purpose. I have left public life forever, shall have nothing more to do with politics, and nothing can tempt me to depart from the plans I have made." At this time Mr. Conkling was $28,000 in debt, not including a mortgage which hung over the family home at Utica. Within the last three years, however, Mr. Conkling was so successful in his practice that he removed that mortgage, paid all his obligations, and in addition paid over $60,000 on the trust fund embezzled by his former law partner, Arthur Johnson. There was no legal obligation for Mr. Conkling to pay these claims. Nothing could have been collected from him in the courts, but he had been instrumental in having Johnson appointed to the trust he betrayed, and felt a moral obligation to settle the losses suffered by his friends. Johnson was one of Mr. Conkling's most intimate friends, and when he committed suicide a few years ago to avoid the disgrace of exposure the shock was the greatest the ex-senator was ever called upon to endure.

THE world has lost one of its greatest experimental chemists by the death of Alfred Nobel, the inventor of dynamite, and the man who made the wide use of nitro-glycerine practicable. The new explosive that Sombrero discovered in Paris forty-one years ago, by treating glycerine with sulphuric and nitric acid, was never practically applied until after years of experimenting. Nobel succeeded in producing nitro-glycerine in a form that admitted of comparatively safe handling. The knowledge of which Nobel's long investigations were the fruit was not obtained without the sacrifice of human lives. Among the victims of the terrible explosive he perfected was one of his brothers. Nobel was a Swede, and in the quarries of that country he first demonstrated the efficacy of nitro-glycerine in its improved form. It was not long, however, before the use of nitro-glycerine for blasting purposes was superseded by Noble's latter discovery, which is now generally regarded as the safest as well as one of the most powerful of explosive.

A WRITER in the New York Sun tells the story of the wonderful boom in Southern California. His summing-up is as follows: "The assessed value of all property in California in 1886 was $768,000,000; in 1887 it was [illegible]000,000, an increase of $132,000,000. Of this great increase the three lower counties—Los Angeles, San Bernardino, and San Diego—show nearly $72,000,000, or more than three and a half times as much as the gold and silver product of the State in 1887, which was $20,000,000. The aggregate increase in the counties of Fresno, Tulare, Kern, Santa Barbara Ventura, Los Angeles, San Bernardino, and San Diego, all in the lower part of ROSCOE CONKLING was strongly averse to being interviewed, but his freedom in general conversation often led to his being victimized without his knowledge. When Sullivan and Ryan had their famous meeting in Madison Square Garden the ex-Senator occupied one of the press seats. While awaiting the appearance of the pugilistic stars he chatted freely with those around him, and the next day one of the afternoon papers had a column interview with him, in which the whole range of athletic sports was discussed in a peculiarly happy manner.

ALEXANDER GRAHAM BELL of telephone fame was a penniless boy in Edinburgh twenty-five years ago. He is now 40 years old and is described as a handsome man of modest demeanor. He came to this country in 1872, and has a beautiful home in Washington. His wife is a deaf mute, but she and her husband converse just as well as other people, for he understands every movement of her lips as she does of his.

M. ERNEST RENAN utterly disbelieves the story that Alexander the Great's tomb has been found at Sidon of the Phœnicians. He sees no reason to doubt what the historians tell us—namely: that Alexander's sarcophagus was carried to Alexandria. M. Renan's incredulity is supported by St. Chrysostom, who says that both the place of Alexander's tomb and the day of his death are unknown.

THE man who is most frequently seen upon the street with Jay Gould is Gen. Thomas T. Eckert, who gained his title as director of military telegraphs during the war. Gen. Eckert is the real director of the affairs of the Western Union Telegraph Company. He is a six-footer started in life as a telegraph lineman, and is now rated as a millionaire. Like President Norvin Green, of the Western Union, he is also a native of Kentucky.

THE late Emperor William had a Yankee streak of humor in him. It is told that once at a hunt the huntsmen laid twenty-eight head of game before him, which they said he had killed. He smiled and quoted: "There are more things in Heaven and earth than are dreamt of in your philosophy." Adding: "For is it not a miracle that I should have killed twenty-eight head while I had only twenty-five cartridges?"

MISS LOUISE ROYCE, whose heroic action during the Nebraska blizzard in saving the lives of her school children has given her a place among the heroines of the country, has fully recovered from the illness caused by her exposure to the bitter cold and by the amputation of her frozen limbs. Although a hopeless cripple for life, the little woman looks bravely toward the future, and bears her fate with resignation and even cheerfulness.

GEN. JAMES GRANT WILSON, of New York, on visiting a few days ago the spot near Atlanta, Ga., where Gen. McPherson fell, found that relic-hunting vandals had so mutilated the granite base in which the upright gun is placed as a monument, that the hero's name is scarcely legible. Some of the iron pickets which inclose the memorial had also lost their points, having, like the granite, as Gen. Wilson was informed by his colored guide, "been toted off by gemmen from de North."

MR. WITHERELL BROWN, of the Witherell & Brown rolling mill at Findlay, O., thinks that luck is dead against him. He was the victim of a peculiar accident recently. He drew $500 in bills from the bank, and placing the package in an outside pocket of his coat started out the railroad track to walk to his mill. A train passed him, and from the smokestack of the engine a spark of fire was thrown into his pocket, alighting upon the package, causing it to burn. When Brown discovered and quenched the fire it had eaten through the center of the bills, leaving only the two ends of each bill unconsumed. It is the opinion of the bank officials that enough of the money remains to be redeemed in bills.

What you need is a medicine which is pure, efficient, reliable. Such is Hood's Sarsaparilla. It possesses peculiar curative powers.

ATTENTION DEMOCRATS.

A Call for the Delegates to the County Democratic Convention.

The democrats of Allen county are requested to meet on Friday, the 22d day of June, 1888, at the first precinct in their respective wards and townships (except Pleasant township, where the caucus will be held at Center school house) for the purpose of electing by ballot one hundred and eighty-three delegates to attend the county convention, to be held in the city of Fort Wayne, Saturday, the 23d day of June, 1888, which convention will meet for the purpose of nominating two representatives to the general assembly, one judge of the circuit court of Allen county, one prosecuting attorney, sheriff, treasurer, coroner, surveyor and one commissioner each from the first, second and third districts.

In said convention the townships and wards will be entitled to the following number of delegates:

Advice to Mothers.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels and is the best known remedy for [illegible] a man for groaning when he has Rheumatism or Neuralgia. The pain is simply awful. No torture in the ancient times was more painful than these twin diseases. But—ought'n't a man to be blamed if, having Rheumatism or Neuralgia, he wont use Ath-lo-pho-ros, when it has cured thousands who have suffered in the same way? It has cured hundreds after physicians have pronounced them incurable.

"The skill of five physicians could not cure me of Rheumatism which had settled in the hips, neck and shoulders. So intense was the pain that sleep was almost impossible. The first dose of Athlophoros gave me relief, and the third enabled me to sleep for four and a half hours without waking. I continued its use and am now well."

THE ATHLOPHOROS CO. 112 Wall St. N. Y.

The treatment of many thousands of cases of those chronic weaknesses and distressing ailments peculiar to females, at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., has afforded a vast experience in nicely adapting and thoroughly testing remedies for the cure of woman's peculiar maladies.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the outgrowth, or result, of this great and valuable experience. Thousands of testimonials, received from patients and from physicians who have tested it in the more aggravated and obstinate cases which had baffled their skill, prove it to be the most wonderful remedy ever devised for the relief and cure of suffering women. It is not recommended as a "cure-all," but as a most perfect Specific for woman's peculiar ailments.

As a powerful, invigorating tonic, it imparts strength to the whole system, and to the womb and its appendages in particular. For overworked, "worn-out," "run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," housekeepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequaled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

As a soothing and strengthening nervine, "Favorite Prescription" is unequaled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, exhaustion, prostration, hysteria, spasms, and other distressing, nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the womb. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a legitimate medicine, carefully compounded by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate organization. It is purely vegetable in its composition and perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the system. For morning sickness, or nausea, from whatever cause arising, weak stomach, indigestion, dyspepsia and kindred symptoms, its use, in small doses, will prove very beneficial.

"Favorite Prescription" is a positive cure for the most complicated and obstinate cases of leucorrhea, excessive flowing, painful menstruation, unnatural suppressions, prolapsus, or falling of the womb, weak back, "female weakness," anteversion, retroversion, bearing-down sensations, chronic congestion, inflammation and ulceration of the womb, inflammation, pain and tenderness in ovaries, accompanied with "internal heat."

As a regulator and promoter of functional action, at that critical period of change from girlhood to womanhood, "Favorite Prescription" is a perfectly safe remedial agent, and can produce only good results. It is equally efficacious and valuable in its effects when taken for those disorders and derangements incident to that later and most critical period, known as "The Change of Life."

"Favorite Prescription," when taken in connection with the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and small laxative doses of Dr. Pierce's Purgative Pellets (Little Liver Pills), cures Liver, Kidney and Bladder diseases. Their combined use also removes blood taints, and abolishes cancerous and scrofulous humors from the system.

"Favorite Prescription" is the only medicine for women, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee, from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. This guarantee has been printed on the bottle-wrapper and faithfully carried out for many years.

Large bottles (100 doses) $1.00, or six bottles for $5.00.

SORE FROM KNEE TO ANKLE.

Skin entirely gone. Flesh a mass of disease. Leg diminished one third in size. Condition Hopeless. Cured by the Cuticura Remedies.

For three years I was almost crippled with an awful sore leg from my knee down to my ankle; the skin was entirely gone, and the flesh was one mass of disease. Some physicians pronounced it incurable. It had diminished about one third the size of the other, and I was in a hopeless condition. After trying all kinds of remedies and spending hundreds of dollars, from which I got no relief whatever, I was persuaded to try your Cuticura Remedies, and the result was as follows: After three days I noticed a decided change for the better, and at the end of two months I was completely cured. My flesh was purified, and the bone (which had been exposed for over a year) got sound. The flesh began to grow, and to-day, and for nearly two years past, my leg is as well as ever it was, sound in every respect, and not a sign of the disease to be seen.

CONSTITUTIONAL CATARRH.

No single disease has entailed more suffering or hastened the breaking up of the constitution than Catarrh. The sense of smell, of taste, of sight, of hearing the human voice, the mind,—one or more, and sometimes all, yield to its destructive influence. The poison it distributes throughout the system attacks every vital force, and breaks up the most robust of constitutions. Ignored, because but little understood, by most physicians, impotently assailed by quacks and charlatans, those suffering from it have little hope to be relieved of it this side of the grave. It is time, then, that the popular treatment of this terrible disease by remedies within the reach of all passed into hands at once competent and trustworthy. The new and hitherto untried method adopted by Dr. Sanford in the preparation of his Radical Cure has won the hearty approval of thousands. It is instantaneous in affording relief in all head colds, sneezing, snuffling and obstructed breathing, and rapidly removes the most oppressive symptoms, clearing the head, sweetening the breath, restoring the senses of smell, taste and hearing, and neutralizing the constitutional tendency of the disease towards the lungs, liver and kidneys.

Sanford's Radical Cure consists of one bottle of the Radical Cure, one box of Catarrhal Solvent, and one Improved Inhaler, price $1.

SENATOR BERRY of Arkansas, is the Lochinvar of the Senate, with the difference that he stole his bride by means of a canoe instead of a steed. Mrs. Berry was Miss Lizzie Quail, the daughter of a well-to-do Arkansas merchant, and when the future Senator came to woo her in the guise of a poor, one-legged school teacher (the other leg having been left on the battlefield at Corinth) his suit was opposed by her parents. But the bold lover one night tied his canoe to the banks of the Arkansas near the lady's house and carried her away before the stern parent knew what was in contemplation.

"HERE is a serious thing," said a doctor, as he walked through an Erie Railroad train yesterday. "This smoking car seats fifty persons, and yet there is seldom a chance for a seat after the train starts out of New York. The men in this car have gone into the country at considerable expense and disadvantage for the sake of their healths. The only time they spend at home is at night, and most of it in their bedrooms in heated houses where the air is very little different from that in a city bedroom. They spend from two to four hours of the only leisure they have in this car, where the air is so vitiated with tobacco that though I am an old smoker it makes me as sick in fifteen minutes as did my first cigar. It is safe to say that the health of these men would have been better guarded had they stayed in town."

IT is not generally known that the rendered fat of a woodchuck is as good a barometer as any we have to-day. While in the country, a short time ago, the writer had occasion to travel through the lower part of Berks. At the house of a friend he pressed me to take an umbrella with me. There were no signs of a storm. I asked why he persisted in so dogged a manner for me to accept the article. "Why," said he, "look at my barometer." There upon the shelf stood a bottle sealed with beeswax. It was all cloudy. The old gentleman said that he had used this one for most twenty years, and if a storm was brewing the barometer got cloudy twelve hours before the rain or snow began to fall. In clear weather the oil was always clear.

IT is said that during the last Presidential crisis in France a newspaper correspondent at Rennes wrote regularly to his newspaper. Every time the "political police" opened his letters. After a while he tried the plan of registering his letters. "Enclosure of a 100 francs" he wrote on the outside of one in order to insure privacy for it, without, of course, putting the money inside. The letter arrived safely; none of the seals were broken, but neatly enclosed lay a postal order for 100 francs. The clever officers who had intercepted the letter thought that on opening it they had lost the enclosure and substituted another, hoping thereby to escape unpleasant investigation.

IN the London Standard is an account of a German doctor's investigations as to the size of men and women's hearts. The masculine heart is larger and weighs more than that possessed by the fair sex. A heart, it would appear, grows most quickly during the first and second years of life, and between the second and seventh years it doubles in size. Until after the fiftieth birthday the heart grows a little larger. In childhood the male and female heart are the same size; but after manhood the masculine heart develops much more than the female, and ends by being two square inches larger than the latter.

ENGINEER Charles S. Homer, of the Old Colony road, who recently died in Providence, R. I., was a soldier under Gen. Butler. When the troops occupied Annapolis in 1861, the General found that all the locomotives had been taken away except a broken-down one. He called on the ranks for some one to repair it, and Homer stepped out and reckoned he could fix it, and he did, using wood mainly in the repairing. The locomotive did good service, and as a reward Gen. Butler offered the engineer a lieutenant's commission, but he refused it.

A SMITH'S Falls, Canada, correspondent tells of the excitement caused in that town by the discovery of a sea serpent, waving its fins above the water. A dynamite cartridge was fired, serpent disappeared for a few moments, and then appeared again. Twice more cartridges were exploded, and still it floated. Then a boat was procured, and careful investigation with a long pole revealed the fact that the serpent was a piece of cloth which had floated down from one of the mills and caught in some refuse in the bottom of the river.

IN 1865 Jenny Lind, in Edinburgh, visited a music seller's in Prince street. The attendant, a young man, askd her if she had ever heard Jenny Lind. The singer replied in the affirmative, and herself asked if he had heard the "Swedish nightingale." He replied that the very high price of the tickets kept them far beyond his income. She asked him to play an accompaniment to the song which she held in her hand. He did so, and at the close the singer, saying, "Now you have heard Jenny Lind," walked out.

YOUNG John Stokes and Miss Savannah Roe of Calhoun, Ga., thought that they ought to run away in order to get married, and they started for Cassville, where they hoped to get a license. But Father Roe was after them, and he caught them before they reached the town, and, turning them homeward, surprised and delighted them by conducting them to the Calhoun Court House, where he made them stand up before 'Squire Tinsley and wed.

THE following clause in the will of a Hallowell, Me., gentleman, which he wrote himself, illustrates by its simple trustfulness in human nature the purity of the man himself: "I don't know how the property may hold out and what may happen, but I leave it to M. and J. to do as they think best in making some little donation to D. and G. My gold-headed cane I promised to J. if he behaved himself, and I trust to them to make my promise good."

A parishioner stood up in St. George's Church, Bolton, England, and forbade the bans of a couple intending to get married. The objector was quietly requested to go into the vestry at the close of the service, when it was learned that he grounded his opposition on the alleged fact that the man was in debt and consequently not in a position to marry.

A CELEBRATED MISER.

No End of Money, Yet Suffering Rather Than Part with It.

[From the Pittsburgh Dispatch.].

Perhaps the most famous miser that ever lived was John Elwes, an Englishman, who died from neglect because he refused to incur the expense of physicians and nurses, though worth not less than $4,000,000. In the case of John Elwes, his sordid character was not the result of ignorance, for he was a graduate of a Swiss university, and later in life was a member of Parliament. His greed of gold was an hereditary sin. He was the son of a London brewer, who died when the boy was only 4 years old. His mother survived, but to such an extent did her passion for money gain a hold upon her that, though she had $500,000 in her own right, she actually starved herself to death. An uncle, Sir Harvey Elwes, was also a miser, and the example of these two blood relatives exercised such an influence upon John Elwes that he became the most famous miser of three centuries. After his return to England from Geneva, Elwes moved in fashionable London society, where his prospective wealth entitled him to recognition.

When he visited his uncle in Suffolk, where the latter lived in the most abject penury, his hopeful nephew would play a double part. He would wear his fashionable garments as far as a little inn in Chelmsford, where he exchanged them for a patched pair of trousers, a worn out coat, darned stockings, and clodhopper shoes with iron buckles. In this attire he would call upon his uncle. The latter would not permit a fire on cold March days on the score of its being extravagant, and the two would sit with a crust of bread and one glass of wine between them until it was too dark to see each other's faces, and then they would retire to save the expense of candles. When this uncle died he left his nephew a fortune of $1,000,000.

As he grew older, John Elwes developed the terrible avarice that marked his life by a passion for cards. He would sit in his threadbare clothes with the Duke of Northumberland and play with feverish eye and trembling hand with thousands at stake, and then, after having lost or won, as the case may be, he would walk to his miserable lodgings, three miles distant, in a pelting rain, rather than pay for a cab.

Elwes owned a magnificent country seat in Berkshire. When he would leave London to visit it he would put three hard boiled eggs and some crusts of bread in his pockets, then, mounting a horse, would ride over fields and through lanes, going miles out of his way to avoid roads where he would have to pay a few pennies toll. A more than faithful biographer says of him:

"He would eat his provisions in the last stage of putrefaction rather than have a fresh joint from the butcher, and at one time he wore a wig about a fort night which he picked out of a rut in a lane, and which had apparently been thrown away by a beggar."

At his country seat he allowed of no repair save a little brown paper or a bit of broken glass. During the harvest he would amuse himself with going into the fields to glean the corn on the grounds of his own tenants; and they used to leave a little more than common to please the old gentleman, who was as eager after it as any pauper in the parish. To save bed coverings, before his death, he would go to sleep completely dressed with his boots and hat on. He died miserably, his mind weakened by worry and privation. The value of his fortune, which went to two sons, was not less than $5,000,000.

Domestic Recipes.

ROAST SPRING LAMB WITH MINT SAUCE.—Select a hind quarter and roast in a moderate oven until thoroughly cooked. All young meat, such as veal and lamb, requires very thorough cooking. Serve with mint sauce made as follows: Remove the leaves from the stalks of a whole bunch of mint. Cut in fine bits and place in the sauce bowl. Bruise with three teaspoonfuls of sugar. Pour over the whole half a pint of vinegar, which if very strong should be diluted.

LEG OF BEEF BROTH.—Take a leg of beef, break the bone in several places, place it in a pan with a gallon of water, remove the scum as it rises, and add three blades of mace, a crust of bread, and a small pinch of parsley; boil till the beef is tender; toast some bread, cut it in diamonds, lay it in the bottom of the tureen, put the meat on it, and pour the broth over all.

STEWED COD.—Cut some of the finest pieces from the thickest part of the fish, place them in a stewpan with a lump of butter the size of a walnut, or larger, three or four blades of mace, bread crumbs, pepper, salt, a small bunch of sweet herbs, and some oysters, with a little of their own liquor. When nearly done, add a large wine glass of sherry, and stew gently until enough.

LAMB AND PEAS STEW.—Cut the breast of lamb in pieces and place in a stew pan, with water enough to cover it. Stew for twenty minutes and take off the scums, add a quart of shelled or canned peas with a tablespoonful of salt and let stew for half an hour. Mix a quarter of a pound of butter and a tablespoonful of flour and stir into the stew; let simmer five minutes, season and serve with dumplings.

BEEF SALAD.—Take half a pound of boiled fresh beef and cut it into small pieces; take the crisp leaves from two heads of lettuce, cleanse and put them in the salad bowl; add the beef. To this add a tablespoonful of finely-chopped Spanish pepper; pour over the whole a plain dressing and mix lightly before serving.

ABOUT BREAKFAST.—Whenever possible, says a correspondent of Good Housekeeping, begin your breakfast with fresh fruit. When this not obtainable use the canned or dried fruit. Then follows one or the other of the various cereals, oatmeal hominy, rice, etc., but care must be taken that any one of these does not pall on the taste. For students and brain workers fresh eggs or fish is the best morning meal, while laborers and mechanics require more animal food with their bread and butter. Never put pastry of any kind on the breakfast table. Fresh milk or water are the best drinks, though coffee, if taken at all, should always be at breakfast rather than at supper. Pieces of bread, cut round, toasted and arranged upon a platter, with a spoonful of scrambled eggs on each piece, is a nice, delicate breakfast dish. Toasted crackers, with a sauce of boiled milk, seasoned, and thickened with grated cheese, makes a pleasant variation, and stewed, fried or roasted potatoes are served with the beefsteak.

One woman of Fairfield, Me., at least, knows how to bring her husband to terms when she wants funds. She called on her lord for money to purchase a pair of shoes the other day, and he sullenly refused. She then applied to the Overseers of the Poor. They gave a order, but she got her shoes, and her husband is sadly humbled.

That Noble Animal, Man.

Dearly beloved, it is natural for weak, finite man to turn to the clown for funny things, but really some of the funniest things you read falls from the pen of the wise man. Now read this—I don't know who wrote it. I find it in a "religio-philosophical" paper, but if it doesn't make you smile you are devoid of the sixth sense: "When one comes in sight of the nobler side of humanity it is no longer a surprise that Christ suffered martyrdom for the race." Now, it was a man who wrote that; no woman ever said such a thing; it was a man, and if the man goes to Heaven he will be bitterly disappointed if a delegation of angels and all the apostles do not meet him ten miles outside the gate with an address of welcome and the freedom of the city in a gold box. We are a nice set of fellows for a God to suffer martyrdom for. Says this same complacent man: "Human beings are all right; we are simply darkened by the shadow of a social system that offers a premium upon our worst traits, and deliberately crushes the nobler part of us." Oh, yes, we are all right, aren't we? We are naturally, preternaturally, supernaturally, angelically good, but the shadow of a social system "offers premiums" and "crushes" us; a right healthy "shadow" that combines the functions of a county fair and a stone-breaker. How good we are by nature. You have to teach the lisping child his prayers, but he learns to lie naturally at home, and learns to swear the first day he goes to school. He hates his lessons and loves to fish. He plays "hookey" and runs away from Sunday-school, even as he runs to the circus. The man forgets the text before the sermon is half through, and he forgets the sermon next day, but he remembers every word of a vile story fifty years. He growls about the water rate, but pays for his whisky without a murmur. The State has to keep up whipping-posts to keep him from beating his wife; it maintains almshouses for his neglected parents and asylums for his abandoned children; it builds jails to keep him from stealing, penitentiary to keep him honest, gallows to keep him from murdering, and but for the terror of hell fire he wouldn't try to go to Heaven. Oh, yes, man, generally considered, is a sweet bird, and when we come to look at it, the race conferred an undying honor upon its Saviour in permitting Him to become a martyr for a crowd of such exalted beings. All that ails us is the "shadow of a social system" that we—by the way, who established that social system—the angels, or these magnificent "human beings" with a team full of "nobler part?"—Bob Burdette.

THE arrest of a Greek named Raptoporilos at Paris for robbing the Numismatic museum at Athens of ancient coins worth 30,000,000 francs brings into publicity one of the most remarkable of recent crimes. That a man could steal $6,000,000 worth of valuables from a museum in a great city seems well-nigh incredible. Surely Raptoporilos must be well grounded in the respective values of ancient coins. He knew how to pick out the gems. But what can be said of the guardians of a museum who permit a thief to openly appropriate the best curiosities under their care? They evidently belong to the same variety of men from which so many banks in this country choose their directors.

It is a Curious Fact

That the body is now more susceptible to benefit from medicine than at any other season. Hence the importance of taking Hood's Sarsaparilla now, when it will do you the most good. It is really wonderful for purifying and enriching the blood, creating an appetite, and giving a healthy tone to the whole system. Be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla, which is peculiar to itself.

A sound body and a contented mind are necessary to perfect happiness. If you wish to possess these, cleanse your blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It is perfectly safe to take, and is a thoroughly reliable, highly concentrated, and powerful blood purifier.

DANIEL WEBSTER'S great grandson is to marry a great granddaughter of Benjamin Franklin, the ceremony to take place in Washington. The youth is Webster Appleton Edgar, son of Mrs. Jerome Napoleon Bonaparte by her first marriage. She was Miss Appleton of Boston, a granddaughter of Webster. The girl is the granddaughter of the late Gen. Emery.

A TRAMP in Wyoming carried two bottles of whisky in the pockets of the long skirts to his coat. When he climbed a tree to survey the country and fell, the coat tails, aided by the weight and action of the bottles, knotted themselves about the limb and the tramp was hung. His dead body was found still hanging by the coat tails and the whisky untouched.

HOOD'S COMPOUND EXTRACT OF SARSAPARILLA — TRADE MARK —

The importance of purifying the blood cannot be overestimated, for without pure blood you cannot enjoy good health.

At this season nearly every one needs a good medicine to purify, vitalize, and enrich the blood, and Hood's Sarsaparilla is worthy your confidence. It is peculiar in that it strengthens and builds up the system, creates an appetite, and tones the digestion, while it eradicates disease. Give it a trial.

Bill Arp on Dogs.

There's another dog come home—Ralph is working down at the mines and took a notion to send his fine dog home. That makes four dogs right in a bunch, and we can't stand it. One is old and blind and won't die. Another is Carl's, and my wife she claims the shepherd as her pet, but she got mad with him the other day and said she wished he was away off on some farm. So while she was out visiting, I gave the dog away, but it didn't stick. He came back home before she missed him, and it was lucky for me that he did.

Ralph's dog is a pointer—an educated pointer, and will bring your hat to you. That's what he writes. Well, I don't want my hat brought to me; I can go after it, and now it will take as much to feed these four dogs as to keep a cow; and before long their taxes will be to pay again. When I was up at Anderson the dog tax was on hand, and the marshal could hardly find anybody who owned a dog.

"Haven't you got a dog?"

"No, nary dog, nothing but a little pup about so high," and he put his hand nearly to the ground.

He stopped at another house and inquired: "Got any dogs?"

"No; no dogs about these premises."

"Why, what is that animal slipping under the house?"

"Oh, that—that little fice; why, that ain't mine—that's Susy's little fice—he's no dog—and he don't belong to us, no how."—Atlanta Constitution.

DR. HAMMOND has written a second article to explain his theory that men need not die. He says that a scientific knowledge of the laws of diet and rest will enable men to prevent the wast and weakness of old age. Very fine. But the day was gone by in which men have time either to diet or to rest. They must push on with the crowd, or be trampled to death.

Pearl Soap

is renowned for its fine washing qualities. It lathers freely and is, without boasting, the most economical and best for family use.

QUEEN VICTORIA has of late fallen into the habit of taking little "cat-naps" in her chair, even when visitors are present. At such times the royal lady goes through the same routine followed by the most humble of her subjects. Her head falls a little forward, swaying slightly from side to side; then she starts and holds up right, opens her eyes wide, and assumes an appearance of great intelligence and alertness.

No Universal Remedy

has yet been discovered; but, as at least four-fifths of human diseases have their source in Impure Blood, a medicine which restores that fluid from a depraved to a healthy condition comes as near being a universal cure as any that can be produced. Ayer's Sarsaparilla affects the blood in each stage of its formation, and is, therefore, adapted to a greater variety of complaints than any other known medicine.

Boils and Carbuncles, which defy ordinary treatment, yield to Ayer's Sarsaparilla after a comparatively brief trial.

Mr. C. K. Murray, of Charlottesville, Va., writes that for years he was afflicted with boils which caused him much suffering. These were succeeded by carbuncles, of which he had several at one time. He then began the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and after taking three bottles, the carbuncles disappeared, and for six years he has not had even a pimple.

That insidious disease, Scrofula, is the fruitful cause of innumerable complaints, Consumption being only one of many equally fatal. Eruptions, ulcers, sore eyes, glandular swellings, weak and wasted muscles, a capricious appetite, and the like, are pretty sure indications of a scrofulous taint in the system. Many otherwise beautiful faces are disfigured by pimples, eruptions, and unsightly blotches, which arise from impure blood, showing the need of Ayer's Sarsaparilla to remedy the evil.

All sufferers from blood disorders should give Ayer's Sarsaparilla a fair trial.—avoiding all powders, ointments, and washes, and especially cheap and worthless compounds, which not only fail to effect a cure, but more frequently aggravate and confirm the diseases they are fraudulently advertised to remedy.

He has arranged for an exceptionally strong corps of instructors and an excellent opportunity will be given teachers to put themselves in good teaching trim. This county is noted for its excellent normals. Special teachers in history and reading will be commendable features. This county is also starting a teachers library.—Indiana School Journal.

The funeral of the late Mat Barrett occurs to-morrow morning at 9 o'clock from the Cathedral. Mr. Barrett leaves a wife and four children, instead of one son, as stated yesterday. For fourteen years Mr. Barrett was an employe of Root & Co., and he was held in the highest regard by his employers, as well as the employes of the store. His manly character and pleasant ways made him a great favorite and surely a wide circle of friends will mourn his untimely death as deeply as the family can.

The ladies auxiliary of the railroad department of the Y. M. C. A. have set upon Thursday, June 21, for their annual excursion to Warsaw and no pains will be spared to make it a most enjoyable occasion to all their patrons. The proceeds will be applied toward the advancement of the best interests of the work in which they are engaged, and as all our readers know, that tends to the true advancement of our city. We hope to hear of their usual success, as they are certainly worthy of the patronage of all our citizens.

The Cartridge Exploded.

Last evening while Mr. Fred W. Starkey, an employe of the Pittsburg blacksmith shops, was handling some gun cartridges, he was severely injured by the explosion of one of them. It appears that for some reason he was pounding it with a hammer and it exploded and sent the ball into his leg, inflicting a wound that will lay him up for several days.

He is a young man about eighteen years of age and lives with his father on Orchard street in Bloomingdale. Fred's injuries are painful, but not serious.

Quite a Sad Accident.

The little son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Comparet swallowed a quantity of amonia last night and was in a precarious condition this morning.

It was feared the child could not recover.

The Peace Justices.

American Association.—Louisville, 5; Cleveland, 6. Baltimore, 6; Kansas City, 4. Athletics, 14; Cincinnati, 7. Brooklyn, 5; St. Louis, 4.

Base Ball To-morrow.

ECHOES OF THE RAIL.

Wednesday's Gossip as it is Wafted in the Breeze and Caught up by the Sentinel Reporter.

The Jenney won.

Better times are coming.

The Pittsburg car shops are busy.

The new railroad shops will carry with a big vote.

The Knights of Pythias excurted to Rome City this morning.

John Falkner, of the Fort Wayne iron works, is on the sick list.

The employes of the Pittsburg shops are looking for better times.

John Waterman, the night watchman at the electric light works, is on the sick list.

There were 291 people went with the K. of P. excursion to Rome City this morning.

A number of the excursionists to Rome City this morning took their fishing tackle with them.

Fred Vodde, a moulder at the Bass works, is off duty to-day attending the funeral of a relative.

Mr. L. M. Schmidt left for the City of Mexico last night on business for the electric light works.

The advertising car of Barnum's circus was standing on the track at the Wabash depot this morning.

Wm. Klingmann, a moulder at the Bass works, had his foot burned quite severely yesterday while at work.

The real estate dealers are enjoying the boom that the new railroad shops have already given their business.

The delegates from the St. Louis convention will be passing through the city for the next few days on their return home.

G A. Darnburg is now chief line repairer of the northwest system of the Pennsylvania railroad. He succeeds S. Uhlich.

Will Paul, formerly of Henton's restaurant, has taken a position in a Wabash dining car, with a run between this city and Toledo.

E. W. Keller has resigned his situation at the Fort Wayne iron works, and accepted a position as engineer with Eckert's packing house.

W. C. Baade, the clerk in the Pittsburg blacksmith shop, will captain a nine from that department to play the car shop boys next Saturday.

Henry Rodenbeck, of the Bass works, has been transferred to temporary duty at the Fort Wayne iron works during the sickness of John Falkner.

The Bass works would welcome any increased activity in the Pittsburg shops, as the latter establishment throws a large amount of work into their hands.

F. W Starkey, an employe of the Pittsburg blacksmith shops, is off duty on account of an injury he received last evening while fooling with a revolver cartridge.

Mr. F. D. Casanave, the superintendent of motive power of the Pennsylvania company, who has been at Pittsburg attending the annual meeting of the company, is expected to bring good news when he returns home.

Mr. Dan Hurley, the assistant foreman in the Pittsburg shops, has returned from Crestline, where he was engaged in superintending the testing of the company's boilers along the line of the road.

William Mowrer, an employe of the Olds wheel works, had his hand badly mashed Monday by having it caught between the fly wheel and a log. The injury will keep him from duty for several days.

The employes of the Jenney electric light works are rejoicing over the victory obtained by that company in their suit with the Brush Electric Light company, at Indianapolis yesterday, and there were many happy hearts at that establishment.

The Lake Shore road will neither receive nor deliver freight from or to other roads in Chicago hereafter on Sunday. The switchmen demanded extra pay for working on Sunday, so the company concluded to drop the Sunday business. The order went into effect on Sunday.

About midnight last night an unknown man assaulted a colored lady in the waiting room of the Pittsburg depot for the evident purpose of securing her watch. Officer Rohle chased the man westward on Chicago street, but the would-be robber was too fleet of foot for him and escaped.

It doesn't take a week for a stranger to find out what Captain Boltz's politics are. Our reporter's gazes in upon him frequently at his office in the Olds works and pokes politics at him. The captain is not for Cleveland, but that is probably because Cleveland does not belong to the republican party.

A number of the employes in the manufacturing establishments of this city, who have heretofore voted the republican ticket, have announced their intention of voting for Cleveland at the coming presidential election. Our reporter meets a new convert to the democratic faith almost every morning.

Dick Nohrwald and Charley Druhot, moulders in the Bass works, were at Rome City yesterday on a fishing expedition. They camped out in an ice house and returned to the city in a box car, so the boys in the works say. They were on duty this morning as usual and assure our reporter that they had a magnificent time.

The men who have been taken back into the Pittsburg car shops will remain in the permanent employ of the company. There is a large amount of work to be done in the way of repairing old cars and adding new improvements to them and this will keep the car department busy for a long time. "The men have come to stay," said Mr. J. A. Graham, the general foreman of the car shops, to our reporter this morning.

A Horse Stolen.

Yesterday a stranger, representing himself as agent of the Diamond Agricultural works, hired a horse and buggy of J. W. Pearse. The outfit was not returned and Mr. Pearse pronounces it a theft. A reward of $50 is offered for the horse and buggy and thief.

"Star" shirt waists, to close what we have, at greatly reduced prices. Louis Wolf and Co.

HOOSIER MEETINGS.

The Doctors, the Pythian Knights and Episcopalians in Session at the State Capital.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 6.—The Indiana State Medical society is in session at Plymouth church. Thirty-eight similar meeting have preceded this one, and the society is the oldest and strongest of the medical organizations of the state.

Dr. Elder submitted his eighth annual report. "At the time of our last meeting," he said, "fifty-four auxiliary societies had reported 839 members; fifteen societies had reported 305 additional members, making a total of 1,144 paying members and sixty-nine auxiliary societies for 1887, a gain of two societies and five paying members. During the past year especial attention has been given to the organization of new societies in counties heretofore unrepresented and the reorganization of old ones. We now have upon our roll seventy-four county societies and 1,200 contributing members. Fifty-three auxiliary societies have reported a present membership of 764, a net gain of fourteen. The mortality list includes nineteen, including the ex-president of the society."

Carter B. Higgins, M. D., of Peru, treasurer, submitted a report showing total receipts of $1,216.63; unexpended balance on hand, $270.36.

Dr. Lowe, from the arrangement committee, reported a bill of expenditures to the sum of $125.97.

Knights of Pythias.

The Grand lodge, Knights of Pythias, met in its twentieth annual session at the state headquarters, in this city, yesterday.

The reports submitted were printed in pamphlet form. In regard to a plan for redistricting the state, for the appointment of district deputy grand chancellors, which was suggested at the last annual meeting, Grand Chancellor Heiskell reports that it was found impossible, as the supreme chancellor had decided that the district deputy grand chancellor cannot deputize past chancellors in lodges distant from the deputy to install the officers of their lodge, and a deputy of a large district cannot install all the officers of the lodges in his jurisdiction, as the grand lodge has made no provision for his expenses. The report also recommends that a better plan be adopted at the present session for the establishment of deputy district grand inspectors, it having been found impractical to carry out the suggestions made by the last session; also, that active steps should be taken to revise the general law, and that the rank of past chancellor be conferred on General Ross and R. O. Holland.

Grand Master of the Exchequer Shideler reports receipts of $12,340.51 during the year and disbursements of $4,919.62.

Grand Keeper of the Records and Seal Frank Bowers shows in his report that the present number of lodges in the state is 196, and the membership 12,204. During the year twenty-eight new lodges were instituted. The total receipts of the subordinate lodges for the year were $89,241.17, and expenditures $50,718.82. The total resources are $192,077.50. For the relief of widows and orphans $1,021.63 were paid, and for relief and burials $13,742 24.

The Episcopal Jubilee.

A series of services of supreme interest to the members of the Episcopal churches of Indiana began at Christ church yesterday. It is, as a whole, the jubilee celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the organization of the diocese of Indiana. In the forenoon the fourth annual conference of the church women was held. There was an introductory sermon by Rev. Frank Hallom, of Richmond, and a welcome address by the bishop. Miss Emily L. Uphold, of Indianapolis, diocesan secretary, made a report of the women's work. Thirteen auxilliary societies reported contributions to the amount of $1,611.93. For woman's parochial work, etc., thirty-two parishes contributed $11,040.44. The number of workers reported was 1,084. Money and various helps have been contributed to schools and missions. Last night the fiftieth annual meeting of the diocesan convention was called to order. The exercises will conclude with a banquet Thursday night at the Dennison.

State Encampment Sons of Veterans.

The first annual state encampment of the Sons of Veterans opened yesterday morning in the old supreme court room, Col. E. S. Walker in the chair. The committee appointed on credentials announced that 176 delegates were entitled to admission. Committees of five members each were appointed on rules and regulation, resolutions and officers' reports.

THE DRUGGISTS.

The Indiana Pharmaceutical Association in Session in This City.

The Pharmaceutical association of Indiana began its annual session in this city, this morning, and is being attended by a large number of druggists from all parts of the state. The convention is a magnificent body of business gentlemen and represents the leading druggists of the state. Every train that come into the city this morning brought a number of delegates and the attendance is quite large.

In the Evans block, on East Berry street, a most interesting exhibit of druggists' material has been arranged for the benefit of the druggists in particular and the public in general. It shows a great number of articles, crude and manufactured, of interest to druggists, and also some apparatus used in the trade.

The morning session of the convention began at Rathbone hall, at 11 o'clock. The association was called to order by the president, Mr. D. W. C. Bryant, after which Rev. S. Wagenhals offered an earnest prayer.

The address of welcome was to have been delivered by Mayor Muhler, but as he is attending the democratic convention at St. Louis, the address prepared by him was read to the association and responded to by President Bryant, of Frankfort.

The afternoon session was interesting and consisted of an address by the president, reports of committees, election of officers, miscellaneous business, etc., after which the members took a ride around the city.

The program to-morrow will be as follows:

MORNING SESSION.

9:00 a. m.—"What Fluid Extracts Should be Excluded from Light," Mr. J. K. Lilly.

"Saccharine," Prof. J. N. Hurty.

"Random Notes," Mr. Geo. Spitzer.

"Aqua Distillata," Mr. E. W. Determann.

"The Proposed State Pharmacy Law," Mr. J. R. Perry.

"Should the Proposed Pharmacy Law of Indiana Recognize Diplomas of Colleges of Pharmacy?" Mr. A. J. Detzer.

"Ramdon Notes," Mr. Leo Eliel.

"Should not Yellow Wax be Substituted for White Wax in Ceratrum?" U. S. P., Mr. W. H. Ross.

"Does Commercial Calomel Contain Corrosive Sublimate?" Mr. E. G. Eberhart.

"Emulsions made with Dextrine," Mr. P. H. Fethers.

"Syrup of Ipecac," Mr. Leo. Eliel.

"Oleate of Morphine," W. H. Ross.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

2:00 p. m.—Unfinished and Miscellaneous Business.

Discussions of Papers and Querries.

EVENING SESSION.

10 p. m.—Refreshments and Toasts at the Banquet Hall.

Death of Wesley Hull.

Mr. Wesley Hull, an aged and esteemed citizen, died this morning at half past four o'clock. He leaves a wife, two sons, L. O. and Sylvester Hull, and two daughters, Mrs. John Bennett, of Bloomington, Ill., and Mrs. Geo. H. Whitbeck, of Huntington.

Mr. Hull was seventy-one years of age and one of the pioneer residents of this city, having arrived here in 1862.

His life was useful and many valuable inventions were devised by him. Only a day or so ago he received patent papers on a new invention from Washington.

His funeral will occur Friday morning at 10 o'clock, from his home, No. 950 East Wayne street, Rev. Mr. Barns officiating.

GROVER CLEVELAND

Again Named to Lead the Triumphant Democracy to Victory.

Eloquent Speeches by Collins and Daugherty.

The Proceedings Complete to the Moment of Adjournment.

ST. LOUIS, June 6.—The convention gathers slowly, owing to the protracted meeting of the platform committee and its further conference at 2 o'clock today. The atmosphere of the hall is close and there is a disposition on the part of the visitors in the galleries to view the proceedings in shirt sleeves.

Among the early arrivals of the hall was a delegation of women, who are here to insist upon the incorporation of a plank in favor of woman's right to vote. These ladies look much fresher than the members of the platform committee with whom they had a protracted discussion last night, but without convincing the committee.

There is a disposition to go on with the permanent organization anyhow in order to enable the convention to adjourn finally to-day, about which there is now beginning to be some doubt.

Called to Order.

At 10:22 the convention was called to order by the temporary chairman. A resolution was adopted thanking the Colorado delegation for the silver gavel and directing it to be placed in charge of the national committee for use at future democratic conventions.

The chair laid before the convention the credentials of the delegates from Alaska. They were referred to the committee on credentials.

Several resolutions were offered and referred. Mr. Webb, of Alabama, chairman of the committee, submitted a report on the Dakota contested case. The committee finds in favor of W. F. Steele and G. C. Maguire, of the church faction. The committee also finds in favor of admitting Messrs. Dulaney and Garnett as delegates from Alaska. Agreed to.

The committee on organization reported it had unanimously agreed upon Patrick A. Collins, of Massachusetts, for permanent chairman. The announcement was received with loud applause and cheers.

H. H. Ingersoll, of Tennessee, is secretary, and one delegate from each state as vice president and one as assistant secretary.

The committee further recommended that the rules of the previous convention shall be in force during the present convention, with a modification that no state shall change its vote for president and vice president until the call of the states is completed. Agreed to.

Chairman Barnum, Roswell P. Flower, of New York, and John O'Day, of Missouri, were appointed a committee to escort the permanent chairman of the convention to the stage.

Mr. White introduced Mr. Collins and passed over the silver gavel to him.

Speech of Gen. Patrick Collins.

General Collins said that the chairmanship of the convention, a post filled by the foremost men of the party, was appreciated by him as a distinction of the highest character. The young men of the nation, he said, had heard more in their time of the clash of arms and the echoes of war than the principles of government. So 'twas no wonder the question was asked and scarcely answered: "What difference is there between the two parties?" The speaker replied to the query with a pithy summary of the political creed of Thomas Jefferson, the apostle of democracy.

To this General Collins added the golden economic rule, that no more taxes should be levied upon the people in any way than was necessary to meet the honest expenses of the government. True to these principles, the democratic party fought successfully our foreign wars, protected our citizens in every clime, compelled the respect of all nations for our flag, added imperial domain to our territory, and insured peace, prosperity and happiness to all people. False to these principles, the great federal, whig and know-nothing parties went down, never to rise again and now here to-day are the representatives of the party that had survived all others, the united, triumphant invincible democracy, prepared to strike down forever the last surviving foe in November.

This country has been the asylum for all the good men from all over the earth, who flee from want and oppression and mean to become Americans. But we invite and welcome only friends to this ground, and blegsmen to the republic. Our institutions cannot change to meet the hostile wishes, nor be so much as essentially modified, save by peaceful and deliberate action. The mass of our people are in accordance with the constitution or the laws of the land, and the man is not a true American who, knowing what we are, will by word or act, experiment or thought in any way attempt to weaken the foundation of this splendid political structure—the republic of the United States.

General Collins, warmly and at length, eulogized the administration of President Cleveland as having triumphantly justified his election. The democracy now stood on the edge of another and perhaps greater contest with relation to the electors, not held before for a generation—that of the responsibility for the great trust of the government, no longer critics, but criticised. They were confronted by a wily, unscrupulous and desperate foe. There would be no limit on record that would not be magnified into a blot; no circumstances, not tortured and misrepresented; no disappointment, not exaggerated into revolt; not a class or creed but what would not be sought to inflame; no passion, not attempted to rouse; no fraud that would not be willingly perpetrated, but the appeal of the democratic party is not to passion or prejudice, to class of faction or race, or creed, but to the sound common sense interest, intelligence and patriotism of the American people. Upon their matchless record for the last four years, and upon their earnest efforts, as yet incomplete, to reduce and equalize the burdens of taxation, democrats enter the canvass.

General Collins closed by appealing to the patriotic, independent citizens, who four years ago forsook their old allegiance, and who, since that time, have nobly sustained the administration, to remember that it is fatal error to weaken a political organization by which great reforms have been achieved, and risk them in the hands of their known adversaries. The democratic temple is open to all and if, in council, they could not agree in all things, their motto nevertheless, was: "In essentials, unity; in non-essentials, liberty; in all things, charity."

Mr. Collins spoke in a voice which, though not great in volume, was sufficiently clear and distinct to enable him to be heard in every portion of the hall. He was frequently interrupted with loud applause. References to the name of Cleveland provoked enthusiasm whenever they occurred in the chairman's remarks. At the conclusion of his speech Mr. Collins was again roundly and warmly greeted.

Down to Work Again.

The chair announced that the committee on resolutions will not be able to report until 8 p. m.

The convention passed resolutions of regret at the illness of General Sheridan and the hope that he will be spared for many years.

The Sheridan resolutions were adopted by a rising vote, with three hearty cheers for the gallant soldier.

Mr. Schawalter, of Missouri, offered a tariff resolution. Referred to the committee on resolutions.

A request from the women's convention recently held at Washington that two of its members be allowed ten minutes to talk to the convention in behalf of the women of America was read. Mr. O'Donohue, of New York, moved that the women be heard and it was agreed to. Mrs. Merryweather then mounted the platform. She said she was a delegate to ask that this great convention help to make the practice of this nation conform to its principles of universal suffrage.

Resolutions were then offered for a recess until 8 o'clock this evening and until 10 o'clock to-morrow, when Mr. Hensell, of Pennsylvania, moved that a roll of states and territories be called and the names of the candidates for president and vice-president be placed in nomination, but no ballot be taken until after the committee on resolutions shall have reported. The resolution was adopted.

When Alabama was called the chairman said his state desired to give way to New York.

The New York delegation presented Daniel Daugherty to make the nomination and the great hall rang with cheers, which were prolonged and grew in volume for a minute until Mr. Daugherty mounted the platform. Then it was redoubled.

Hon. Daniel Daugherty Nominates Cleveland.

Mr. Daniel Daugherty said: "I greet you, my countrymen, with fraternal regard. In your presence I bow to the majesty of the people—slight itself inspiring thought sublime. You come from every state and territory, from every nook and corner of our ocean-bound continent. You are about to discharge more than an imperial duty, with the simplest ceremonials. You, as the representatives of the people, are to choose a magistrate, with power mightier than a monarch, yet checked and controlled by the supreme law of a written constitution. Thus impressed I ascend the rostrum to name the next president of the United States. New York presents him to the convention and pledges her electoral vote. Delegations from thirty-eight states and all the territories are assembled without caucus or consultation, ready to simultaneously take up the cry and make the vote unanimous. We are here not indeed to choose a candidate, but to name the one the people have already chosen. He is the man for the people. His career illustrates the glory of our institutions. Eight years ago unknown, save in his own locality, he for the last four years stood in the gaze of the world discharging the most exalted duties that can be confided to mortal. To-day determines that, not of his own choice, but by the mandate of his countrymen and with the sanction of heaven he shall fill the presidency for four years more. He has met and mastered every question as if from youth trained to statesmanship. The promises of his letter of acceptance and inaugural address have been fulfilled. His fidelity in the past inspires faith in the future. He is not a hope, but a realization. Scorning subterfuge, disdaining re-election by concealing his convictions, mindful of his oath of office to defend the constitution, he courageously declares to congress, dropping minor matters, that the supreme issue is reform, revision and reduction of national taxation; that the treasury of the United States is gluted with unneeded gold that oppresses industry, embarrasses business, endangers financial tranquility and breeds extravagance, centralization and corruption. That high taxation, vital for the expenditures of an unparalled war is robbery in years of prosperous peace. That the millions that pour into the treasury come from the hard earned savings of the American people. That in violation of equality of right, the present tariff has created a privileged class, who, shaping legislation for personal gain, levy by law contributions for the necessaries of life from every man, woman and child in tax. That lower tariff is not free trade. It is to reduce the unjust profits of monopolists and manufacturers and allow the consumers to retain the rest. The man who asserts that to lower the tariff means free trade insults intelligence; we brand him as a falsifier. It is furthest from our thought to imperil capital or disturb the enterprises. The aim is to uphold wages and to protect the rights of all. This administration has rescued the public domain from the world-be barons and cormorant corporations, faithless to their obligations and reserved it for free homes for this and coming generations. There is no pilfering, no jobs under this administration. Public office is a public trust. Integrity stands guard at every post of our vast empire, while the president has been the medium through which has flowed the undying gratitude of the republic for her soldiers. He has not hesitated to withhold his approval from special legislation, if the strictest inquiry revealed a want of truth and justice. Above all, sectional strife, as never before, is at an end, and 60,000,000 of freemen in the ties of brotherhood are prosperous and happy. These are the achievements of this administration. Under the same illustrious leader, we are ready to meet our political opponents in high and honorable debate and stake our triumph on the intelligence, virtue and patriotism of the people. Adhering to the constitution, its every line and letter, ever remembering that powers not delegated to the United States by the constitution, nor prohibited by it to the states are reserved to the states respectively or to the people. By authority of the democracy of New York, backed by the democracy of the entire union, I give you a name entwined with victory and nominate Grover Cleveland, of New York.

MR. DAUGHERTY'S OVATION.

Mr. Daugherty's speech was delivered with fine effect in his best style and aroused unbounded enthusiasm. When he mentioned the name of Cleveland or referred to his public acts and utterances the convention fairly shouted itself hoarse. Delegates mounted the chairs, waved hats, canes and handkerchiefs.

The spectators joined in the applause and a band in the east gallery helped along with horns and drums, but their blare and noise could scarcely be heard above the general din. As Mr. Daugherty finished his impassioned speech, some one in the west gallery tore aside a curtain which had hid the portrait of Cleveland upon the face of a great picture of the capitol building, revealing to the full gaze of the convention the well known features of the president. This incident aroused the enthusiasm of the convention to a fever heat for the first time during its proceedings. The hall was at once filled, with cheer on cheer and the great body in the auditorium, balcony and galleries arose and stood shouting at the top of its voice until the din became almost deafening. Hats were thrown in the air, red bandanas waved from a thousand hands and white, black and gray hats were frantically thrust upon points of canes and waved until their owners became exhausted. The culmination of this great scene was reached when the banners of the states were borne by delegates to the New York standard and grouped about it. At this the enthusiasm was unbounded. It was exactly twenty-four minutes before the chair again assumed charge of the convention.

Seconding the Nomination of Cleveland.

James A. McKenzie, of Kentucky, took the stand to second the nomination of Grover Cleveland. There was, he said, within the broad limits of this great land, but one more popular democrat than Cleveland, and that was the queenly woman he had made his wife, (laughter and loud, long, continued applause). The white house was presided over by the uncrowned queen of our republic. He (McKenzie) was not going to let Mrs. Cleveland out of this campaign. "In Hoc Signo Vinces." (Applause.) At the last convention it was said that Cleveland was "loved for the enemies he made," later he was loved for the rascals he had turned out, and still later it was said he was loved for the message he had written. (Applause). Kentucky loved him for the fight that was in him, and for his splendid racing qualities. He was as game as Lexington and as speedy as Ten Broeck. [Laughter and applause.] In his early fame he won the Buffalo mayoralty, stakes hands down; later he cantered from post to pole in the New York handicap, winner by 192,000 feet. [Laughter.] He then entered against the Florentine Mosaic from Maine and won the national Derby by a neck. He was about to run again and the bulletin board would show "Eclipse first and the rest nowhere." Mr. McKenzie then eulogized Mr. Cleveland and the administration in a pleasant manner.

Mr. H. D. Twiggs, of Georgia, also seconded Mr. Cleveland's nomination.

When Illinois was reached W. R. Morrison said he merely desired to formally second the nomination on behalf of the state of Illinois.

Kansas responded with a written second commending the Cleveland administration.

Michigan was represented by B. D. Stout, who voiced the sentiments of his delegation in seconding the nomination.

W. W. Lightfoot, of Texas, seconded the nomination on behalf of his state and promised a majority of 200,000 at the next election.

Mr. Cleveland Nominated by Acclamation.

Mr. McKenzie, of Kentucky, moved to suspend the rules and nominate Grover Cleveland for president by acclamation.

The chair put the question and there was returned from the convention a thundering chorus of "Ayes."

The chair therefore announced that Grover Cleveland, having received an unanimous vote, was the candidate of the democratic party for the office of president of the United States.

When the nomination was announced another scene of wild enthusiasm occurred, but not so prolonged as that which followed Mr. Daugherty's speech.

The Convention Adjourns.

Mr. Voorhees moved a recess until 10 a. m. to-morrow. Lost.

Mr. Flower, of New York, moved to take a recess until 8 to-night. Lost.

Mr. Voorhees moved to take a recess until to-morrow at 10 o'clock; carried, and at 2 p. m. the convention adjourned.

A National Colored Club Organized.

Nearly a hundred representative colored democrats, from more than a dozen states, but chiefly from the north, held a meeting here yesterday afternoon and organized a negro national democratic league, with James M. Vena, of St. Louis, chairman; T. T. Brown, Springfield, Ill., secretary; Herbert A. Clark, Cincinnati, O., chairman of the executive committee, which is to be composed of one member from each state.

English to Thurman.

INDIANAPOLIS, June 6.—The following was sent to Mr. Thurman:

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 5, 1888.

To Hon. A. G. Thurman, Columbus, Ohio:

Whatever preference Indiana may have for one of her own citizens, you may rely upon the ticket of Cleveland and Thurman receiving the cordial and undivided support of the democracy of the state. To doubt the election of that ticket would be to doubt the intelligence of the American people.

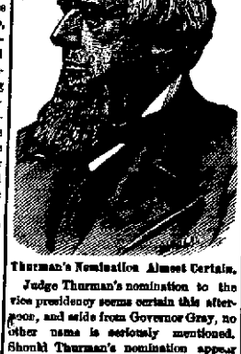
WM. H. ENGLISH.

The Committee on Resolutions at Work.

The committee on resolutions had a very long, and at times, a stormy session last night, and did not adjourn until 2:30 this morning. The committee met at 9 this morning and it is extremely probable that it will not finish its work by 10 o'clock. Mr. Gorman, the sub-committee, advocated [illegible] the reiteration of the [illegible] direction clause in the platform and favored a reduction of internal revenue taxation. Mr. Watterson appealed for an explicit enunciation of the party's position upon the tariff, upon which it could go to the polls free from the stigma of an attempt to straddle this great issue, which, he said, had been justly charged to the platform of 1884.

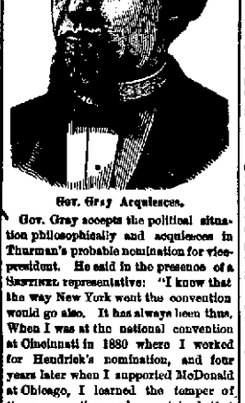
FOR VICE PRESIDENT.

Portraits of the Leading Contestants and an Idea of Their Strength.



Thurman's Nomination Almost Certain.

Judge Thurman's nomination to the vice presidency seems certain this afternoon, and aside from Governor Gray, no other name is seriously mentioned. Should Thurman's nomination appear inevitable when the convention assembles to-morrow morning Governor Gray's friends will offer no futile opposition. On the contrary, they will acquiesce in a manner that will please the convention mightily and put Indiana democracy in splendid position before the country. This will be done upon the advice of Gov. Gray himself, who is fully advised as to the situation and is prepared to give the convention, should occasion arise, the best possible proof of his genuine democracy.



Gov. Gray Acquiesces.

Gov. Gray accepts the political situation philosophically and acquiesces in Thurman's probable nomination for vice-president. He said in the presence of a SENTINEL representative: "I know that the way New York went the convention would go also. It has always been thus. When I was at the national convention at Cincinnati in 1880 where I worked for Hendrick's nomination, and four years later when I supported McDonald at Chicago, I learned the temper of those conventions and ascertained that New York's influence determined the result. I told several of my friends when I was first spoken of for the vice presidency how it would be. I informed Mr. Shanklin that the success of my candidacy would depend upon the support I received from the New York men, though I thought nothing then of Mr. Thurman being a factor. The delegates from that state are and always have been very dictatorial, but there will likely come a reaction against them some time. At least they will not rule the whole country when the democratic party awakes to the fact that it is not entirely dependent on New York for presidential success."

"How do you explain Mr. Scott's support of Mr. Thurman?"

"Well, he thought he would make a great political stroke by nominating Thurman. He thinks that by so doing he will force the republicans to nominate Sherman and thus leave New York free to Cleveland. Why, the republicans will not be in the least ruffled by such a move, as they have the state solid for them and they know it."

The Iron Manufacturers Insist on a Ten Per Cent. Reduction of Wages.

PITTSBURG, June 6.—The iron manufacturers of the west met here to-day and agreed upon a scale of wages for the ensuing year, to be presented to the Amalgamated association. The democrats lead in the state and the nation this year.

NATURAL gas was known in Japan ten centuries ago, as was also petroleum.

GOVERNOR GRAY is solidly and freely supported by his own state for the vice-presidency. No other aspirant can boast of this undoubted honor.

NO DEMOCRAT can find anything but favor in Judge Thurman's candidacy for vice-president. It is only a question of preference for Indiana's great leader with us.

GOVERNOR HILL, of New York, yesterday signed the bill abolishing hanging for all murders committed after January 1, 1889, and substituting death by electricity therefor.

THE government to-day collects $100,000,000 annually in excess of its apparent or prospective needs. The democratic party aims to stop this extortion by a sensible reduction of taxation. This is the democratic "free trade" talked of so much.

A PITTSBURG dispatch tells us that 4,000 workmen in the national tube works at McKeesport, Pa., have been forced to accept a reduction of 10 per cent. in wages, under the glorious high tariff laws that increase the profits of the toiler, we are told by the republicans.

SOMEBODY may now assert that Gresham is a Catholic because Father Campion, of Lafayette, has pronounced him as one having "all the elements that ennoble manhood" and added that "he would make a grand president." The judge, however, is not a Catholic.—Gazette.

The Gazette is entirely too specific in its declaration that Judge Gresham "is not a Catholic." It would not detract from his greatness or his popularity, would it? Better and greater men than he is have exposed and been born in the Catholic faith, and members of that church will not be slow to read the ingenious purpose of the Gazette between the lines. It might change Rev. Mr. Campion's notion were he to read it.

THE Logansport Journal remarks: "The contrast for the building for the state school for feeble-minded children, at Fort Wayne, has been let to a Fort Wayne firm. The building must be completed by the first of January, and will in all probability be commenced this week. The amount appropriated by the legislature is so small that it is thought the building will not accomodate the school, which at present numbers 282 scholars and teachers. To show how rapidly this school is increasing in attendance, we only need state that one year ago there were only sixty-nine scholars and teachers in the institution. If the next legislature encourages it by proper appropriations as it deserves, it will increase more rapidly than ever in attendance and be one of the prominent institutions of the state. It is estimated that there are almost seventeen hundred idiotic and epileptic children in Indiana."

AN IMPORTANT DECISION.

Judge Gresham Sustains the Jenney System of Electric Lights.

Indianapolis News.

An important decision was filed in the federal court to-day, in the case of Charles F. Brush, of Cleveland, against John Owen et al., in which an infringement of patent was alleged by complainants, testing the validity of what is known as the Jenney system. The opinion is by Gresham, as follows:

1. The invention shown in the patent sued for on was declared in patents 212,183 and 219,298, but in 212,183 the examiner held that Brush's claims were too broad. That decision was acquiesced in and the invention which was there described, claimed and rejected, is now claimed in the patent sued on. The rejected invention was dedicated to the public by acquiescence in the ruling of the examiner, and cannot be claimed in a subsequent patent against others who meantime entered the field and used the rejected invention.

2. The patent in suit is limited to solenoids and cores mechanically opened, and it does not include [illegible] upon electro-magnets and [illegible] used on [illegible] trimped by the defendants. These, briefly, are my reasons for dismissing the bill for want of equity.

The complainte are represented in this case by M. D. and L. L. Leggett, of Cleveland, and McDonald, Butler & Mason, this city, but the trial of the cause was left solely to McDonald and the Cleveland firm. R. S. Taylor, of Fort Wayne, represented the defendants. The decision is regarded as unusually important, and the case will go the supreme court, as at present anticipated.

MR. CONKLING'S friends who are in a position to know say that his finances are in much better shape than they have ever been, said a recent letter from Washington, and that he not only paid all his debts, but at the time of his death had a good balance in the bank and some profitable investments. When he opened his office in New York he had not a cent in the world and was deeply in debt. He said at that time: "When I lay at the gate of the grave some months ago, ill at my home in Utica with malarial fever, that which worried me most was the consciousness that in my entire career of nearly sixty years I had accumulated nothing, and if I died I would not only leave my family penniless but loaded with debt. At that time I did not have the money to pay the bills of the physician. If I had died I would not have left enough to pay my funeral expenses, and I made a solemn resolution that if Providence would spare my unworthy life I would devote it to the payment of my obligations and making provision for my old age and for those who are dependent upon me. I have come to New York with that purpose. I have left public life forever, shall have nothing more to do with politics, and nothing can tempt me to depart from the plans I have made." At this time Mr. Conkling was $28,000 in debt, not including a mortgage which hung over the family home at Utica. Within the last three years, however, Mr. Conkling was so successful in his practice that he removed that mortgage, paid all his obligations, and in addition paid over $60,000 on the trust fund embezzled by his former law partner, Arthur Johnson. There was no legal obligation for Mr. Conkling to pay these claims. Nothing could have been collected from him in the courts, but he had been instrumental in having Johnson appointed to the trust he betrayed, and felt a moral obligation to settle the losses suffered by his friends. Johnson was one of Mr. Conkling's most intimate friends, and when he committed suicide a few years ago to avoid the disgrace of exposure the shock was the greatest the ex-Senator was ever called upon to endure.

THE world has lost one of its greatest experimental chemists by the death of Alfred Nobel, the inventor of dynamite, and the man who made the wide use of nitro-glycerine practicable. The now explosive that Sombrero discovered in Paris forty-one years ago, by treating glycerine with sulphuric and nitric acid, was never practically applied until after years of experimenting. Nobel succeeded in producing nitro-glycerine in a form that admitted of comparatively safe handling. The knowledge of which Nobel's long investigations were the fruit was not obtained without the sacrifice of human lives. Among the victims of the terrible explosive he perfected was one of his brothers. Nobel was a Swede, and in the quarries of that country he first demonstrated the efficacy of nitro-glycerine in its improved form. It was not long, however, before the use of nitro-glycerine for blasting purposes was superseded by Noble's latter discovery, which is now generally regarded as the safest as well as one of the most powerful of explosive.

A WRITER in the New York Sun tells the story of the wonderful boom in Southern California. His summing-up is as follows: "The assessed value of all property in California in 1886 was $768,000,000; in 1887 it was $910,000,000, an increase of $132,000,000. Of this great increase the three lower counties—Los Angeles, San Bernardino, and San Diego—show nearly $72,000,000, or more than three and a half times as much as the gold and silver product of the State in 1887, which was $20,000,000. The aggregate increase in the counties of Fresno, Tulare, Kern, Santa Barbara Ventura, Los Angeles, San Bernardino, and San Diego, all in the lower part of M. ERNEST RENAN utterly disbelieves the story that Alexander the Great's tomb has been found at Sidon of the Phœnicians. He sees no reason to doubt what the historians tell us—namely: that Alexander's sarcophagus was carried to Alexandria. M. Renan's incredulity is supported by St. Chrysostom, who says that both the place of Alexander's tomb and the day of his death are unknown.

THE man who is most frequently seen upon the street with Jay Gould is Gen. Thomas T. Eckert, who gained his title as director of military telegraphs during the war. Gen. Eckert is the real director of the affairs of the Western Union Telegraph Company. He is a six-footer started in life as a telegraph lineman, and is now rated as a millionaire. Like President Norvin Green, of the Western Union, he is also a native of Kentucky.

THE late Emperor William had a Yankee streak of humor in him. It is told that once at a hunt the huntsmen laid twenty-eight head of game before him, which they said he had killed. He smiled and quoted: "There are more things in Heaven and earth than are dreamt of in your philosophy." Adding: "For is it not a miracle that I should have killed twenty-eight head while I had only twenty-five cartridges?"

MISS LOUISE ROYCE, whose heroic action during the Nebraska blizzard in saving the lives of her school children has given her a place among the heroines of the country, has fully recovered from the illness caused by her exposure to the bitter cold and by the amputation of her frozen limbs. Although a hopeless cripple for life, the little woman looks bravely toward the future, and bears her fate with resignation and even cheerfulness.

GEN. JAMES GRANT WILSON, of New York, on visiting a few days ago the spot near Atlanta, Ga., where Gen. McPherson fell, found that relic-hunting vandals had so mutilated the granite base in which the upright gun is placed as a monument, that the hero's name is scarcely legible. Some of the iron pickets which inclose the memorial had also lost their points, having, like the granite, as Gen. Wilson was informed by his colored guide, "been toted off by gemmen from de North."

MANAGER BROWN, of the Witherald & Brown rolling mill at Findlay, O., thinks that luck is dead against him. He was the victim of a peculiar accident recently. He drew $500 in bills from the bank, and placing the package in an outside pocket of his coat started out the railroad track to walk to his mill. A train passed him, and from the smokestack of the engine a spark of fire was thrown into his pocket, alighting upon the package, causing it to burn. When Brown discovered and quenched the fire it had eaten through the center of the bills, leaving only the two ends of each bill unconsumed. It is the opinion of the bank officials that enough of the money remains to be redeemed in bills.

a man for groaning when he has Rheumatism or Neuralgia. The pain is simply awful. Go tortures in the ancient times was more painful than these twin diseases. But—oughtn't a man to be blamed if, having Rheumatism or Neuralgia, he won't use Athlophoros, when it has cured thousands who have suffered the same way? It has cured hundreds after physicians have pronounced them incurable.

"The skill of five physicians could not cure me of Rheumatism which had settled in the hips, neck and shoulders. So incensed was I at them that every one of them I could ride. The first dose of Athlophoros gave me relief, and the third enabled me to sleep four and a half hours without waking. I continued to use and am now well."—Rev. N. E. Wood, 15 Nassau Street, Albany, Ind.

THE ATHLOPHOROS CO. 112 Wall St. N. Y.

The treatment of many thousands of cases of those chronic weaknesses and distressing ailments peculiar to females, at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., has afforded a vast experience in nicely adapting and thoroughly testing remedies for the cure of woman's peculiar maladies.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the outgrowth, or result, of this great and valuable experience. Thousands of testimonials, received from patients and from physicians who have tested it in their more aggravated and obstinate cases which had baffled their skill, prove it to be the most wonderful remedy ever devised for the relief and cure of suffering women. It is not recommended as a "cure-all," but as a most perfect Specific for woman's peculiar ailments.

As a powerful, invigorating tonic, it imparts strength to the whole system, and to the Womb and its appendages in particular. For "prostration," "female weakness," "run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," housekeepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequaled as an supporting cordial and restorative tonic.

As a soothing and strengthening nervine, Favorite Prescription is unequaled and is invaluable in relieving and curing nervous excitability, irritability, exhaustion, prostration, hysteria, spasms and other distressing, nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the womb. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a legitimate medicine, carefully compounded by an experienced and skilful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate organization. It is purely vegetable in its composition and perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the system. For morning sickness, or nausea, from whatever cause arising, weak stomach, indigestion, dyspepsia and kindred symptoms, its use, in small doses, will prove very beneficial.

"Favorite Prescription" is a positive cure for the more complicated and obstinate cases of leucorrhœa, excessive flowing, painful menstruation, unnatural suppressions, prolapsus, or falling of the womb, weak back, "female weakness," anteversion, retroversion, bearing-down sensations, chronic congestion, inflammation and ulceration of the womb, inflammation, pain and tenderness in ovaries, accompanied with "internal heat."

As a regulator and promoter of functional action, at that critical period of change from girlhood to womanhood, "Favorite Prescription" is perfectly safe and reliable, and can produce only good results. In equally efficacious and valuable in its effects when taken for those disorders and derangements incident to that other and critical period, known as "The Change of Life."

"Favorite Prescription" when taken in connection with the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and small laxative doses of Dr. Pierce's Purgative Pellets (little Liver Pills), cures Liver, Kidney and Bladder diseases. Their combined use also removes blood taints, and abolishes cancerous and scrofulous humors from the system.

"Favorite Prescription" is the only medicine for women, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee, from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. The guarantee has been printed on the bottle-wrapper and faithfully carried out for many years.

Large bottles (100 doses) $1.00, or six bottles for $5.00.

Fruit House Prices.

Great Reduction in Sugar, Coffees, Teas, Dried and Canned Fruits.

SUGARS—WHITE, YELLOW AND BROWN.

No advance on Sugars. The market is strong and higher, but having purchased a large stock at the decline we can still sell at the old prices. Best confectioners' A sugar, 7.; choice extra C sugar, 6.; cut loaf and powdered sugar, 8c.; Granulated sugar, 7½c. Nice brown sugar, 5¼.

Coffees—Rio and Java—Green and Roasted.

The coffee market, under short crop influences, but mainly through speculation, has ruled high all the season, but the limit has been reached and coffees are now lower. The very best Golden Rio, 19c.; good fair Rio, 16c.; Old Government Java, best, 25c.; Choice Roasted Rio, best, 20c.; Best Roasted Government Java, 30c, Dannemiller 22, German 22c, Jersey 20c.

TEAS—GREEN, BLACK AND JAPAN.

Young Hyson, 20c.; good, 30c.; best, 50c. Imperial Tea, good, 30c.; best, 50c. Gunpowder Tea, good, 30c.; best, 50c. Oolong or Black Tea, 25c.; best, 50c. Japan Tea, good, 25c.; best, 50c. English Breakfast, the very best, 50c. Our tea trade, in consequence of high priced coffees, has doubled the past year. Good teas at 20 and 30 cents a pound is relatively cheaper than coffee at 20c. a pound. We purchase direct of the importers and sell direct to our customers, thereby saving our customers the intermediate profits of the wholesale merchant and jobber, which is at least 10 to 20 cents.

FOREIGN FRUITS.

Malaga Layer Raisins, 12c.; Seedless Sultana Raisins, 10c.; Loose Muscatel Raisins, 10c.; Zantee Currants, 8c.; Shelled Almonds, 30c.; Leghorn Citrons, 25c.; Orange and Lemon Peel, 18c.; Best Turkish Prunes, 8c.; Pitted Cherries, 25c.; Layer Figs, 15c.; Layer Dates, 8c.; New Valencia Raisins, 8c.; Good Figs, 8c.

SORE FROM KNEE TO ANKLE.

Skin entirely gone. Flesh a mass of disease. Leg diminished one third in size. Condition Hopeless.—Cured by the Cuticura Remedies.

For three years I was almost crippled with an awful sore from my knee down to my ankle; the skin was entirely gone, and the flesh was one mass of disease. Some physicians pronounced it incurable. It had diminished about one third the size of the other, and I was in a hopeless condition. After trying all kinds of remedies and spending hundreds of dollars, from which I got no relief whatever, I was persuaded to try the Cuticura Remedies, and the result was as follows: After three days I noticed a decided change for the better, and at the end of two months I was completely cured. My flesh was purified, and the bone (which had been exposed for over a year) got sound. The flesh began to grow, and to-day, and for nearly two years past, my leg is as well as ever in every respect, and not a sign of disease to be seen.

Terrible Suffering from Skin Diseases.

I have been a terrible sufferer for years from diseases of the skin and blood, and have been obliged to shun public places by reason of my disfiguring humors. Have had the best of physicians and spent hundreds of dollars, but got no relief until I used the Cuticura Remedies, which have cured me, and left my skin as clear and my blood as pure as child's.

CONSTITUTIONAL CATARRH.

No single disease has enlisted more suffering or hastened the breaking up of the constitution than Catarrh. The sense of smell, of taste, of sight, of hearing the human voice, the taste,—one or more, and sometimes all yield to its destructive influence. The poison it distributes throughout the system attacks every vital force, and brands with its most robust constitutions. Ignored, because but little understood, by most physicians, impotently assailed by local remedies and inhalations, those suffering from it have little hope to be relieved of it this side of the grave. It is time, then, that the proper treatment of this terrible disease by remedies within the reach of all, placed into hands at once competent and trustworthy. The new and hitherto untried method adopted by Dr. Sanford in the preparation of his Radical Cure has won the hearty approval of thousands. It is instantaneous in affording relief in all head colds, sneezing, snuffling and obstructed breathing, and rapidly restores the most oppressive symptoms, clearing the head, sweetening the breath, restoring the sense of smell, taste and hearing, and neutralizing the constitutional tendency of the disease towards the lungs, liver and kidneys.

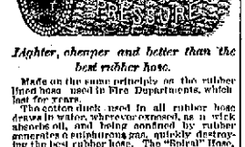
"Spiral" Cotton Hose.



Lighter, cheaper and better than the best rubber hose.

Made on the same principle as the rubber lined hose used in Fire Departments, which last for years.

The cotton duck used in all rubber hose draws in water, wherever exposed, as in rick sheets oil, and being confined by rubber generates a combustible gas, quickly destroying the best rubber hose. The "Spiral" Hose, having no outside coating to harbour the moisture, will keep like a hemp hose.

There are imitations, so buy only that which has one red line running through it, and which is branded "Spiral," patented March 29, '80. If your dealer does not have it in stock, let him get it.

The funeral of the late Mat Barrett occurs to-morrow morning at 9 o'clock from the Cathedral. Mr. Barrett leaves a wife and four children, instead of one son, as stated yesterday. For fourteen years Mr. Barrett was an employe of Root & Co., and he was held in the highest regard by his employers, as well as the employes of the store. His manly character and pleasant ways made him a great favorite and surely a wide circle of friends will mourn his untimely death as deeply as the family can.

The ladies auxiliary of the railroad department of the Y. M. C. A. have set upon Thursday, June 21, for their annual excursion to Warsaw and no pains will be spared to make it a most enjoyable occasion to all their patrons. The proceeds will be applied toward the advancement of the best interests of the work in which they are engaged, and as all our readers know, that tends to the true advancement of our city. We hope to hear of their usual success, as they are certainly worthy of the patronage of all our citizens.

The Cartridge Exploded.

Last evening while Mr. Fred W. Starkey, an employe of the Pittsburg blacksmith shops, was handling some gun cartridges, he was severely injured by the explosion of one of them. It appears that for some reason he was pounding it with a hammer and it exploded and sent the ball into his leg, inflicting a wound that will lay him up for several days.

He is a young man about eighteen years of age and lives with his father on Orchard street in Bloomingdale. Fred's injuries are painful, but not serious,

Quite a Sad Accident.

ECHOES OF THE RAIL.

Wednesday's Gossip as it is Wafted in the Breeze and Caught up by the Sentinel Reporter.

The Jenney won.

Better times are coming.

The Pittsburg car shops are busy.

The new railroad shops will carry with a big vote.

The Knights of Pythias excursion to Rome City this morning.

John Falkner, of the Fort Wayne iron works, is on the sick list.

The employes of the Pittsburg shops are looking for better times.

John Waterman, the night watchman at the electric light works, is on the sick list.

There were 291 people went with the K. of P. excursion to Rome City this morning.

A number of the excursionists to Rome City this morning took their fishing tackle with them.

Fred Vodde, a moulder at the Bass works, is off duty to-day attending the funeral of a relative.

Mr. L. M. Schmidt left for the City of Mexico last night on business for the electric light works.

The advertising car of Barnum's circus was standing on the track at the Wabash depot this morning.

Wm. Klingmann, a moulder at the Bass works, had his foot burned quite severely yesterday while at work.

The real estate dealers are enjoying the boom that the new railroad shops have already given their business.

The delegates from the St. Louis convention will be passing through the city for the next few days on their return home.

G A. Darnburg is now chief line repairer of the northwest system of the Pennsylvania railroad. He succeeds S. Uhlich.

Will Paul, formerly of Henton's restaurant, has taken a position in a Wabash dining car, with a run between this city and Toledo.

E. W. Keller has resigned his situation at the Fort Wayne iron works, and accepted a position as engineer with Eckert's packing house.

W. C. Baade, the clerk in the Pittsburg blacksmith shop, will captain a nine from that department to play the car shop boys next Saturday.

Henry Rodenbeck, of the Bass works, has been transferred to temporary duty at the Fort Wayne iron works during the sickness of John Falkner.

The Bass works would welcome any increased activity in the Pittsburg shops, as the latter establishment throws a large amount of work into their hands.

F. W. Starkey, an employe of the Pittsburg blacksmith shops, is off duty on account of an injury he received last evening while fooling with a revolver cartridge.

Mr. F. D. Casanave, the superintendent of motive power of the Pennsylvania company, who has been at Pittsburg attending the annual meeting of that company, is expected to bring good news when he returns home.

Mr. Dan Hurley, the assistant foreman in the Pittsburg shops, has returned from Crestline, where he was engaged in superintending the testing of the company's boilers along the line of the road.

William Monroe, an employe of the Olds wheel works, had his hand badly mashed Monday by having it caught between the fly wheel and a log. The injury will keep him from duty for several days.

The employes of the Jenney electric light works are rejoicing over the victory obtained by that company in their suit with the Brush Electric Light company, at Indianapolis yesterday, and there were many happy hearts at that establishment.

The Lake Shore road will neither receive nor deliver freight from or to other roads in Chicago hereafter on Sunday. The switchmen demanded extra pay for working on Sunday, so the company concluded to drop the Sunday business. The order went into effect on Sunday.

About midnight last night an unknown man assaulted a colored lady in the waiting room of the Pittsburg depot for the evident purpose of securing her watch. Officer Rohls chased the man westward on Chicago street, but the would-be robber was too fleet of foot for him and escaped.

It doesn't take a week for a stranger to find out what Captain Bolta's politics are. Our reporter's guess in upon him frequently at his office in the Olds works and pokes politics at him. The captain is not for Cleveland, but that is probably because Cleveland does not belong to the republican party.

A number of the employes in the manufacturing establishments of this city, who have heretofore voted the republican ticket, have announced their intention of voting for Cleveland at the coming presidential election. Our reporter meets a new convert to the democratic faith almost every morning.

Dick Nohrwald and Charley Drubot, moulders in the Bass works, were at Rome City yesterday on a fishing expedition. They camped out in an ice house and returned to the city in a box car, as the boys in the works say. They were on duty this morning as usual and assure our reporter that they had a magnificent time.

The men who have been taken back into the Pittsburg car shops will remain in the permanent employ of the company. There is a large amount of work to be done in the way of repairing old cars and adding new improvements to them and this will keep the car department busy for a long time. "The men have come to stay," said Mr. J. A. Graham, the general foreman of the car shops, to our reporter this morning.

A Horse Stolen.

Yesterday a stranger, representing himself as agent of the Diamond Agricultural works, hired a horse and buggy of J. W. Pearse. The outfit was not returned and Mr. Pearse pronounces it a theft. A reward of $50 is offered for the horse and buggy and thief.

"Star" shirt waists, to close what we have, at greatly reduced prices. Louis Wolf and Co.

HOOSIER MEETINGS.

The Doctors, the Pythian Knights and Episcopalians in Session at the State Capital.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 6.—The Indiana State Medical society is in session at Plymouth church. Thirty-eight similar meeting have preceded this one, and the society is the oldest and strongest of the medical organizations of the state.

Dr. Elder submitted his eighth annual report. "At the time of our last meeting," he said, "fifty-four auxiliary societies had reported 839 members; fifteen societies had reported 305 additional members, making a total of 1,144 paying members and sixty-nine auxiliary societies for 1887, a gain of two societies and five paying members. During the past year especial attention has been given to the organization of new societies in counties heretofore unrepresented and the reorganization of old ones. We now have upon our roll seventy-four county societies and 1,300 contributing members. Fifty-three auxiliary societies have reported a present membership of 764, a net gain of fourteen. The mortality list includes nineteen, including the ex-president of the society."

Carter B. Higgins, M. D., of Peru, treasurer, submitted a report showing total receipts of $1,216.63; unexpended balance on hand, $270.96.

Dr. Lowe, from the arrangement committee, reported a bill of expenditures to the sum of $125.97.

Knights of Pythias.

The Grand lodge, Knights of Pythias, met in its twentieth annual session at the state headquarters, in this city, yesterday.

The reports submitted were printed in pamphlet form. In regard to a plan for redistricting the state, for the appointment of district deputy grand chancellors, which was suggested at the last annual meeting, Grand Chancellor Heiskell reports that it was found impossible, as the supreme chancellor had decided that the district deputy grand chancellor cannot deputize past chancellors in lodges distant from the deputy to install the officers of their lodge, and a deputy of a large district cannot install all the officers of the lodges in his jurisdiction, as the grand lodge has made no provision for his expenses. The report also recommends that a better plan be adopted at the present session for the establishment of deputy district grand inspectors, it having been found impractical to carry out the suggestions made by the last session; also, that active steps should be taken to revise the general law, and that the rank of past chancellor be conferred on General Ross and B. O. Holland.

Grand Master of the Exchequer Shideler reports receipts of $12,268.51 during the year and disbursements of $4,919.82.

Grand Keeper of the Records and Seal Frank Bowers shows in his report that the present number of lodges in the state is 196, and the membership 12,304. During the year twenty-eight new lodges were instituted. The total receipts of the subordinate lodges for the year were $69,241.17, and expenditures $60,716.63. The total resources are $192,077.80. For the relief of widows and orphans $1,021.63 were paid, and for relief and burials $18,742.24.

The Episcopal Jubilee.

A series of services of supreme interest to the members of the Episcopal churches of Indiana began at Christ church yesterday. It is, as a whole, the jubilee celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the organization of the diocese of Indiana. In the forenoon the fourth annual conference of the church women was held. There was an introductory sermon by Rev. Frank Hallom, of Richmond, and a welcome address by the bishop. Miss Emily L. Uphold, of Indianapolis, diocesan secretary, made a report of the women's work. Thirteen auxiliary societies reported contributions to the amount of $1,611.93. For women's parochial work, etc., thirty-two parishes contributed $11,040.44. The number of workers reported was 1,084. Money and various helps have been contributed to schools and missions. Last night the fiftieth annual meeting of the diocesan convention was called to order. The exercises will conclude with a banquet Thursday night at the Denison.

State Encampment Sons of Veterans.

The first annual state encampment of the Sons of Veterans opened yesterday morning in the old supreme court room, Col. E. S. Walker in the chair. The committee appointed on credentials announced that 176 delegates were entitled to admission. Committees of five members each were appointed on rules and regulation, resolutions and officers' reports.

THE DRUGGISTS.

The Indiana Pharmaceutical Association in Session in This City.

The Pharmaceutical association of Indiana began its annual session in this city, this morning, and is being attended by a large number of druggists from all parts of the state. The convention is a magnificent body of business gentlemen and represents the leading druggists of the state. Every train that come into the city this morning brought a number of delegates and the attendance is quite large.

In the Evans block, on East Berry street, a most interesting exhibit of druggists' material has been arranged for the benefit of the druggists in particular and the public in general. It shows a great number of articles, crude and manufactured, of interest to druggists, and also some apparatus used in the trade.

The morning session of the convention began at Bainbone hall, at 11 o'clock. The association was called to order by the president, Mr. D. W. C. Bryant, after which Rev. S. Wagenhals offered an earnest prayer.

The address of welcome was to have been delivered by Mayor Mahler, but as he is attending the democratic convention at St. Louis, the address prepared by him was read to the association and responded to by President Bryant, of Frankfort.

The afternoon session was interesting and consisted of an address by the president, reports of committees, election of officers, miscellaneous business, etc., after which the members took a ride around the city.

The program to-morrow will be as follows:

MORNING SESSION.

9:00 a. m.—"What Fluid Extracts Should be Excluded from Lists," Mr. J. K. Lilly.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

2:00 p. m.—Unfinished and Miscellaneous Business.

Discussions of Papers and Queries.

EVENING SESSION.

10 p. m.—Refreshments and Toasts at the Banquet Hall.

Death of Wesley Hull.

Mr. Wesley Hull, an aged and esteemed citizen, died this morning at half past four o'clock. He leaves a wife, two sons, L. O. and Sylvester Hull, and two daughter, Mrs. John Bennett, of Bloomington, Ill., and Mrs. Geo. H. Whitlock, of Huntington.

Mr. Hull was seventy-one years of age and one of the pioneer residents of this city, having arrived here in 1852.

His life was useful and many valuable inventions were devised by him. Only a day or so ago he received patent papers on a new invention from Washington.

His funeral will occur Friday morning at 10 o'clock, from his home, No. 950 East Wayne street, Rev. Mr. Barns officiating.
